CREWMEN ESCAPE FLAMING COMOX BOMBER

As RCAF Mitchell bomber took off from Comox Wednesday for Calgary, fire broke out in starboard engine. As crew circled for landing, starboard wheel dropped off, and it was noted port wheel was down. Plane was crash-landed and crew of four escaped safely only seconds before flames enveloped cockpit. Only engines and remains of airframe are recognizable in wreck. (See also Page 7.)—R. A. Thompson photos.

Atlantic Union Not Feasible Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today that Atlantic union is not a feasible proposition at this time.

He added that any move toward Atlantic union—a federal state comprising the Atlantic nations—would be slow and gradual if, indeed, it ever took place at all.

He made the comment during a press conference while discussing the work of the three-man NATO committee seeking ways of increasing non-military co-operation among the members of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Mr. Pearson, Foreign Minister Lange and Mr. Martine in Paris after the prime ministers' conference.

The trio, known as the "three wise men," decided to distribute a questionnaire containing between 30 and 40 questions to NATO governments seeking their views on how best to strengthen non-military collaboration.

It was hoped that the replies would be all in by Aug. 20. The three would meet again in early September to discuss these replies. At the same time, a number of experts were doing special studies on non-military co-operation.

Mr. Pearson said the committee's terms of reference don't permit any recommendation on Atlantic union. But in the realm of practical politics, such a proposition was not feasible now.

'Drunk' Khrushchev Headed for Skids?

From UP and AP
LONDON (UP)—British newspapers speculated today that Nikita Khrushchev's love of vodka may cost him his leadership in the Soviet Union.

All of London's newspapers published front-page reports that a tipsy Khrushchev publicly insulted British Air Minister Nigel Birch, U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff Nathan Twining and other westerners at a Moscow reception last week.

Several of them remarked that it might cost Khrushchev his job as leader of the Soviet Communist party.

Daily Mail reporter Walter Farr said Khrushchev planned to take "a long holiday."

He quoted "an authority in a position to know the full facts" as saying Khrushchev's position in the Kremlin has been weakened because he must be regarded as an irresponsible drunk.

Meanwhile, reliable reports reaching the West through diplomatic channels said Tuesday that Soviet party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev forced the late Boleslav Bierut, former first secretary of Poland's Communist party, to commit suicide while he visited Moscow early this year.

Top Communist officials in Warsaw had disclosed this to Western diplomats in private conversations, the report added.

When Bierut's death was announced last March 12, the official Polish news agency Pap had said he died in Moscow of a heart attack after having suffered from pneumonia and grippa.

Bierut had gone to Moscow to attend the 20th congress of the Soviet Union's Communist party.

HEATED ARGUMENTS
The Polish party boss had been too much exposed by testimony given by Josef Vlatkov, former high official of the Polish secret police who fled to the West and told the inside story of Communist dictatorships.

This prompted Kremlin leaders to decide Bierut's elimination.

tion. His suicide was preceded by a number of heated arguments with Russian party leaders, headed by Khrushchev.

It was Khrushchev, the reports said, who finally pushed a gun across the table to Bierut who had no choice but to shoot himself.

Bierut put the pistol into his mouth and pulled the trigger.

Democrats Set Sights On Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democratic high command was reported in agreement today that should make full use of the "part-time president" issue in the 1956 campaign against President Eisenhower.

This viewpoint was attributed to the campaign advisers of the three active Democratic presidential contenders and to the ranking officials in party chairman Paul M. Butler's national headquarters.

Mr. Eisenhower erased any doubts about his second term candidacy yesterday by passing the word through his congressional leaders that he is still available.

Win Strike Protest

BERLIN (AP)—A West Berlin newspaper said Tuesday slaughter house workers in Communist East Berlin have won a strike protesting an increased work quota.

The Independent Telegram said a six-hour strike last week convinced Communist officials they should drop an effort to raise work quotas by 35 per cent.

FIR SAWDUST SHORTAGE NEAR

PORT ALBERT (CP)—Officials of MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. said Tuesday there will be no fir sawdust for domestic fuel in this district after May, 1957. They said the present production will continue until December of this year and volume will then be reduced about 50 per cent.

PEACE PROSPECTS GOOD SUPREME SOVIET TOLD

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Premier Nikolai Bulganin today told the Supreme Soviet that "real prospects" have opened up for the establishment of lasting world peace.

Bulganin addressed a joint session of Russia's Parliament following an 18-minute morning session of formalities in which Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev was absent. Khrushchev showed up later in the day.

Commons Urged To Banish Lash

Corporal Punishment Recommended Only as 'Last Resort' in Prison

OTTAWA (CP)—Abolition in Canada of corporal punishment as part of a prison sentence but its retention as a "last resort" measure to maintain discipline in prisons was recommended today to Parliament.

The recommendation was the second major proposal made this session by the Commons-Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries. On June 27 it urged retention of capital punishment but substitution of electrocution or the gas chamber for hanging and no executions for convicted murderers 18 years or under.

Today's report said the committee "concluded that the existence of corporal punishment affords no unique deterrence to crime. Accordingly, the committee recommends that corporal punishment be abolished for any of the offences for which it is presently prescribed in the Criminal Code."

The committee recommended that corporal punishment should be used in prisons in cases of mutiny, incitement to mutiny and for serious assaults on penitentiary officers and servants. It also should be used to punish prisoners guilty of acts of violence against fellow prisoners or causing or attempting serious damage to penitentiary property.

"The committee does not favor indiscriminate use of corporal punishment. Too frequent use of this drastic punishment is likely to reduce its significance and render it less effective than if it is reserved for only the most serious offences."

"It should be regarded, as it is now in most Canadian penal institutions, as a punishment to be applied only as a last resort when all other penalties are judged to be ineffective."

Damage by Seagulls
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A report from Gander says seagulls caused slight damage to a huge transatlantic Constellation aircraft shortly after it took off for Boston during the weekend.

Two dead seagulls were discovered in the engine cowling and another was found crushed against the undercarriage when the aircraft landed at Gander.

RUSSIAN WIVES SMELL VODKA FROM 12 PACES

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Fisheries Minister Sinclair said Tuesday his recent tour of Russia gave him a great affection for the Russian people, whom he described as hard-working persons who want nothing so much as peace.

He told a joint meeting of Kitchener service clubs that vodka in Russia apparently isn't like the variety served in Canada.

He told one Russian official that vodka is popular in Canada because policemen cannot smell it on auto drivers' breaths.

"Then," replied the Russian, "your policemen are not like our women—Russian wives can smell vodka at 12 paces."

Aerial Survey Crew On Secret Project In Kamloops Area

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Four Vancouver men, on an aerial survey of a "top-secret federal project" were killed near here today when their amphibious aircraft crashed on Mount Lolo.

Company officials identified their men aboard the plane as:

Carl Baxter, pilot, and Don McViegh, construction superintendent. The others were identified only as "members of the department of defence production."

Scene of the crash is 15 miles northeast of here but officials of Bennett and White Construction Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, said any information regarding the area is "classified—we can't tell you everything."

Officials of the heavy construction company were dispatched from here to the wreck site "to determine what happened and how it happened."

The company owned the twin-engined Grumman Widgeon plane.

It took off from this South Thompson Valley centre at 10 a.m. but filed no flight plan. It was expected to touch down on Paul Lake, northeast of here.

RCMP left by car for the scene of the crash on the 5,000-foot mountain.

Three hours after the crash, forest rangers and RCMP said the plane was still burning and rescue parties were unable to get near the wreckage.

Children's Zoo Before Board

Warren Reports on Attractions, Costs in Vancouver, Seattle

VICTORIA (CP)—Victoria city council may make a new attempt to open Beacon Hill Park to commercial ventures—this time for operation of a children's zoo.

Materials and labor for a zoo, geared especially for children as a walk-in-and-fondle project, were offered recently by city realtor M. H. King.

City parks committee today heard a report from parks administrator W. H. Warren which estimated initial costs to the city at $6,000. He said he had studied a similar venture in Vancouver where the younger's zoo is run in close proximity to a pony ride.

He said both Seattle and Vancouver would co-operate in supplying Victoria with surplus animals. Usual occupants are barnyard animals and fowl, guinea pigs, lawns and other young animals which can be handled by the children, under supervision.

The Vancouver operation yields a profit of $5,000 and the pony ride profits the city about $1,900 annually. Mr. Warren did not think a local operation would show a profit for some years.

If such a zoo were operated on an admission basis in Beacon Hill Park, special permission would have to be obtained from the province.

It was decided the committee would approach the government to learn the legal position.

40-Trailer Caravan Coming Here From U.S.

VICTORIA (CP)—Victoria parks committee of council today approved setting up of a temporary trailer park to accommodate a 40-trailer United States caravan in Victoria West Park.

Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau advised that a Los Angeles trailer group was coming here Aug. 9 to 12 and required a camping area. The committee agreed, subject to council approval, to permit the trailers to stay in Victoria West Park on payment of a $50 deposit and a rental of 50c a day for each trailer.

The request from the trailer group asked permission to dig and cover later a garbage pit. The committee did not discuss this aspect, nor was any consideration given to supply of electric power during the three-day stay.

Approval was given only on the understanding the trailers did not constitute a commercial venture but were merely used for tourist accommodation.

Man, Baby Hurt
A three-month-old baby was slightly injured and her father admitted to hospital Tuesday night following a two-car collision at Skinner and Catherine. George M. Barker, 217 Battleford, was reported in good condition at St. Joseph's today with head injuries.

His baby daughter, Rena, was treated at St. Joseph's for a head "bump" and later released. Police said Barker's car collided at the intersection with one driven by Gustav Rehner, 3038 Cedar Hill Road. The mishap occurred at 8:37 p.m.

Storm Rages Over Peers' Delay of Anti-Hanging Bill

(FROM REUTERS, UP)

LONDON—A political storm raged today over the House of Lords' rejection of a bill approved by the House of Commons, to abolish the death sentence.

Press and public are fiercely divided over the action Tuesday night by a 238 to 95 vote of the House of Lords.

The Labor party's Daily Herald said: "Bravely, and with a touching dignity, the House of Lords marches to the scaffold."

"By rejecting the bill to abolish capital punishment, and once again refusing to bow to the will of the elected Commons, the House of Lords puts its own coronet in the noose."

Abolition of the peers' hereditary power of obstruction becomes a live political issue. But many influential newspapers applauded the Lords' action.

The Daily Express says the peers gave effect to "the unquestioned will of the people" and dealt a stern rebuke to "the muddleheads... and the under-world."

The vote climaxed a two-day debate which attracted to London many peers who normally take little interest in the activities of the House of Lords.

Nevertheless, some 540 Lords did not cast a vote on the issue. The decision meant a delay—not an end—to the move to outlaw the gallows in Britain. The bill now will return to the House of Commons which can insist on its becoming law in 12 months.

Sir Anthony Eden's government opposed the bill but permitted a "free" vote so members of all parties could vote according to their consciences instead of by party affiliations. Laborite Sydney Silverman sponsored the private bill.

Prime Minister Eden called a meeting of his cabinet today to plan a quick follow-up of a government victory in its fight to retain capital punishment. Any government action, the sources said, would probably be aimed at winning over members of the House of Commons who voted for the bill in its earlier stages. Unless there is a dramatic switching of sides, the House of Commons could again steamroller the anti-hanging bill through its next session.

In that case, it would become law. The Lords have no power of veto and, barring a switch in allegiance by members of the lower house, the peers' vote will only have served as a delaying action.

Two courses lay open to Eden's government: It could let the bill go through Commons again with the prospect of it becoming law, or it could try to replace it with a government bill to retain hanging in the worst cases of murder.

Peers crowded the chamber of the House of Lords last night for the closing stages of the debate. Such famous generals as Viscount Montgomery and Lord Alexander sat on the floor to listen to the speeches, while other peers stood five deep in the aisles.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

ETERNAL GOD, we pray today for the success of the discussions on human relations which have been initiated by the Prince Consort. May the meeting of minds be fruitful and the benefits of contact aid all the nations; through Jesus Christ, Amen.

IN PARLIAMENT

Members Campaign For Summer Recess

(From Times News Services)

Members talked about a summer recess Tuesday but that was as far as they got—just talk.

Two Liberals and a Social Credit member—representatives from Canada's widely-separated coasts—all agreed something should be done to get them out of the hot Ottawa summer and home to their families. But their urgings brought no immediate reply from government spokesmen.

The proponents of taking the summer off were British Columbia's George Hahn (S.C.), New Westminster's, and James A. Byrne (L. Kootenay East) and Newfoundland's C. W. Carter (L. Burin-Burgeo).

Mr. Hahn said members owe it to their constituents as well as their families to get home for a time during the year. Mr. Carter said his $8,000 a year—plus his $2,000 tax-free annual allowance as a member—in no way compensates for the "sacrifice I have to make in family life."

Mr. Byrne did not go all the way for summer recesses but he said he believes Parliament should be able to do its work in six months.

Albertan Ray Thomas (S.C. Wetaskiwin) did not agree at all. He said so far as meeting constituents is concerned, summer is not a good time because many are away on holidays.

The present session of Parliament opened Jan. 10 and current speculation is that it will last until the end of July or perhaps extend into August. The 1955 session—longest of modern record—opened Jan. 7 and ended July 28.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday there may be some danger involved in under-developed countries accepting economic aid from Russia.

But he said Canada is in no position to give them any warning about accepting such help.

Mr. St. Laurent was replying to a question by Social Credit Leader Low, who said United States vice-president Richard Nixon has given such a warning to neutral countries and asked whether it was time for such a warning from Canada.

The prime minister said the U.S. may be in a position to promise aid to some country if it agrees not to accept Russian help. But Canada was not in that position.

Green Hits Ore Shipments to Japan

Howard Green (P.C. Vancouver-Quadra) engaged Trade Minister Howe in argument Tuesday as to whether the minister has power to stop shipments of B.C. iron ore to Japan.

The Iron member said the minister has the power. Mr. Howe denied it.

Mr. Green said B.C. has small deposits of iron ore and has been trying to get an iron-steel industry established. But instead the ore was going to Japan, coming back in processed form at high prices.

He said that when he told the minister the ore was going to Japan, Mr. Howe had said it was a good way to get the ore bodies developed.

"I said nothing of the kind," shot back Mr. Howe. "I said I had no authority to stop it."

Mr. Green: "You have authority under the Export-Import Act."

Mr. Howe: "Are you challenging my statement that I have no authority to stop it?"

When Mr. Green said he was, the minister said "you are quite wrong."

The senate, called back a week early from an 18-day recess Tuesday night gave approval in principle to government legislation by which the provinces will get federal help to meet the costs of aiding their unemployed.

About 30 of the 90 senators were in their seats when the Upper House met.

Solicitor-General Macdonald, government leader, explained the unemployment relief legislation which already has been passed by the Commons and agreed to by Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia.

It calls for a federal payment of up to 50 per cent of relief costs for unemployment above 45 per cent of any province's population.

The CBC is planning capital expenditures of $8,810,887 for its radio and television operations in the current fiscal year, down from $12,091,356 in 1955-56.

The publicly-owned corporation's statement of capital requirements, tabled Tuesday by Revenue Minister McCann, showed the CBC also plans to spend $138,013 on repayment of government loans totaling $27,424,000.

Capital spending on television services totals $7,046,874, mostly for new studios in Montreal and Toronto and completion of Halifax TV studios.

PRINCE GEORGE—A $175,000 shopping centre will be erected a half-mile south of Prince George, council announced.

Plans for the development are being prepared and completion has been set for late fall. The project will be financed by Vancouver interests.

New Election Call Rejected By PM

Speaker Issue Sparks Heated Debate Between St. Laurent and CCF Whip

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Tuesday night rejected a CCF demand that he dissolve Parliament and call an election because of his action Monday in "taking it upon himself to decide" that Speaker Rene Beaudoin should continue in office for the rest of the session.

Stanley Knowles, CCF whip, said that was what Monday's statement by Mr. St. Laurent amounted to.

"Parliament's right to say who will be its presiding officer was taken away from Parliament," Mr. Knowles said.

Mr. St. Laurent replied heatedly that was not the case.

He said his statement was simply a declaration as House leader he felt there was no need to take action on the resignation tendered July 2 by Speaker Beaudoin.

He said Mr. Beaudoin is still Speaker because his offer did not constitute the formal action required to vacate the chair.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Knowles had claimed his action Monday was in contempt of Parliament. It was "an act of full responsibility for the rights and privileges of Parliament."

DECISIONS BY MAJORITY

The prime minister, interrupted repeatedly by Liberal applause, said it was not what Mr. Knowles thought ought to be done that was going to be done "but what I think should be done."

Actions of the Commons were taken by majority—not minority decisions.

"It is not by any accident that the party I have the honor to lead has been in office now for 21 years. It is apt to continue in office for several years longer."

Mr. Knowles was the first Commons member to raise the matter of Monday's statement by Mr. St. Laurent.

Mr. Knowles tried unsuccessfully four times earlier in the evening to speak. Acting Speaker E. T. Applewhite each time gave the floor to other members wanting to speak on another topic under discussion.

FOUR PROTESTS

At one of those four times Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) protested bitterly.

"I think you are making a bawdy house of this place," he shouted at Mr. Applewhite.

Mr. Applewhite, his voice choking with emotion, asked him to withdraw the statement.

The CCF member did not withdraw his statement—one which normally would result in a member being named by the chair and suspended from the Commons for a brief period.

GETS THE FLOOR

Mr. Knowles finally got the floor, however.

"If the Speaker is to be given to the House on the authority of the prime minister," he said, "it will continue to damage and destroy the atmosphere of Parliament."

The prime minister should call an election. He should not close the door "on his duty to the Canadian people so we might have a Parliament clean and fresh."

Mr. St. Laurent replied in a speech marked with more heat than he has shown in any other speech this session. His voice was strong and his face flushed.

He said the Opposition has been trying to establish for some time that they, and not the supporters of the government, should make the decisions.

SHOULD KNOW

He said Mr. Knowles has been posing, with some justification, as an expert on parliamentary rules and precedents. He should know that there had never been any formal acceptance by the Commons of a Speaker's resignation.

A Speaker wishing to resign created a vacancy in the chair by an act of his own will.

Mr. Beaudoin's statement July 2 had not created a vacancy.

"That being the situation, I felt it was necessary for me to say to the House whether or not I was going to take any action to bring about a vacancy."

He said his decision—that there was no need to take further action on the matter of the Speaker—was agreeable to a large and overwhelming majority.

Steel Union Agrees To New Talks

WASHINGTON (UP)—Federal mediation officials expected to get industry agreement today for renewal of a 11-day-old steel strike. But there were no apparent expectations of early settlement.

An industry delegation, headed by U.S. Steel vice-president John A. Stephens, was scheduled to discuss the possibility of renewed negotiations with mediation chief Joseph F. Finnegan today.

David J. McDonald, president of the striking United Steelworkers' Union, agreed to resumption of labor-management talks late Tuesday in a meeting with Finnegan.

The renewed talks between union and management—the first since shortly before the strike began on July 1—would be held Thursday afternoon at Pittsburgh's William Penn Hotel with federal officials sitting in, if the company agrees.

Twining Warns U.S. Of New Russ Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining, United States Air Force chief of staff, warned Tuesday that Russia may give the West a "technological surprise in new weapons."

While he got only a glimpse of Soviet air power on his recent visit to Russia, Twining told the Senate armed services committee, it was enough to put him on his guard.

"I feel that our visit substantially strengthened our previous assessments that the U.S.S.R. while certainly not abreast of us today, can and is progressively narrowing the technological lead of the West generally and of the United States in particular."

The air force chief reported the Russians are putting emphasis on thorough training of carefully selected personnel, squeezing the maximum potential from a jet engine of Western origin and developing powerful new engines of their own.

Commonwealth and China

IN THEIR OFFICIAL COMMUNITIES the prime ministers of the Commonwealth tell us little about their recent discussions in London. There could be, of course, no decisions at such a meeting which represents many independent nations, each with its own policies and some in frequent disagreement. But the fact that they met regularly, exchange views and, above all, that they represent all parts of the world and bridge the gap between the Western and Asiatic peoples, make them the most stabilizing and peaceful influence of these times.

Mr. St. Laurent no doubt is right in regarding the conference as "fruitful" but its fruit will not be reaped immediately. It will appear from time to time, almost intangibly, in the policies of the member nations, among themselves and towards the world at large. Apparently the chief result of these friendly conversations will be a new effort to secure the recognition of the real Chinese Government.

When an American election is pending, when neither of the great political parties is willing to recognize China at the moment, the Commonwealth nations must make haste slowly; for if the Commonwealth may be said to have any single, overriding interest it is friendship with the United States. That is not so true of some of the Asiatic members but it is the foundation of all foreign policy among the English-speaking partners.

Nevertheless, the hard facts of China must be recognized formally not long from now as they have already been recognized informally, even by the United States. The fiction which seats the rump government of Formosa in the United Nations as the representative of the world's most populous nation cannot continue indefinitely.

All or nearly all the Commonwealth nations are in favor of recognizing the true Government of China without approving its doctrines or methods. Several members, including Britain and India, already have extended official recognition. Canada would have done so before now but for its proper fear of creating serious friction with its neighbor.

Year after year the decisive act has been postponed in the hope that American public opinion would change. Undoubtedly it is changing, but gradually, as the Chinese Communists modify their former violence (perhaps at Russia's instigation) and as Americans realize more and more their need of friends in the Commonwealth, now that their atomic monopoly has been broken.

Obviously there is a time limit in this problem. At some point a majority of the United Nations will vote the Chinese Government in and the ghostly regime of Formosa out, even if the United States objects. If American objections were strong enough, this could damage and even disrupt the United Nations. It is for this reason that the Western nations of the Commonwealth have moved so cautiously, though the Asiatic members are more impatient and much more critical of American policy.

No Western government will press the issue during an American election when public opinion and politicians are peculiarly sensitive, but next year, when one party or the other is firmly in office for a four-year term, we shall undoubtedly see a pretty widespread demand for the end of a situation artificial to the point of absurdity, provided that the Chinese Government follows reasonable courses.

Meanwhile, as thoughtful Americans realize, the Commonwealth alone provides a bridge between the West and the East and for this reason alone, if for no other, it is probably the most useful international institution on earth.

The Tide Rolls On

WHENEVER THE KREMLIN executes some new manoeuvre or makes some mysterious gesture, when Pravda prints a few sentences remotely critical of the regime or Mr. Khrushchev reveals another of Stalin's crimes, it is immediately assumed in the Western world that some deep strategy and master plan are at work. Perhaps they are; but Mr. Edward Crankshaw, one of the ablest authorities on Russia in the western world, has his doubts.

He thinks, as he says in the London Observer, that "nobody has the least idea of what will happen next, not even the chief actors in this drama, the Soviet leaders themselves." History, Mr. Crankshaw believes, has broken loose in Russia, after being long pent up by the temporary dam of Stalinism, and the torrent now in flow is entirely out of Mr. Khrushchev's control.

He can control it no better than Canute controlled the waves of the English Channel. All he can do is to ride the flood and hope it will subside. Mr. Crankshaw doubts that even this will be possible, now that the Russian people at last are beginning to realize their strength, are learning a morsel of the truth and hear from Mr. Khrushchev himself that they were betrayed by Stalin (with the assistance of Mr. Khrushchev and his present colleagues).

Mr. Crankshaw's thesis finds widespread support in events throughout the world.

Riots amounting almost to a revolt are suppressed with the usual brutality in Poland.

The Italian Communists attack the Russian Government which, they say, can no longer serve as a model for Communist parties in other countries.

The "Daily Worker" of New York, hitherto the yes-man of Russia, angrily demands an explanation of affairs in Moscow. The "Daily Worker" of London, apologized to its readers for its failure to print Mr. Khrushchev's attack on Stalin before the wicked capitalist press performed this useful service.

Only the Canadian Communists seem to be happy about everything and, after a brief period of mourning for their hideous mistake in following Stalin blindly, are joyfully announcing that Mr. Khrushchev is their man.

If there is a master plan in all this, only Mr. Khrushchev can see it. The Communists outside Russia are obviously as baffled as everyone else. All they know for sure is that Mr. Khrushchev and his colleagues ask the confidence of the Russian public on the proposition that they never agreed with Stalin but were afraid to do what they knew to be right. Therefore—so the logic goes—they can now be trusted.

Word from Gettysburg

ARRIVING HOME FROM EUROPE, Mr. Harry Truman says he would not like to see the health of President Eisenhower injected into the American election. Then he proceeds to inject it by saying that the nation cannot afford a "part-time" president.

With or without Mr. Truman's intervention, the President's health is bound to be an election issue and the only question is how the Democrats will argue it.

They know that Mr. Eisenhower, with health unimpaired, could almost certainly carry the country for a second time against any available opponent and probably will carry it in any case so long as he is able to run.

There can be no doubt, however, from the tone of the American press, even the newspapers most friendly to the President, that his health is deeply troubling the voters.

They have to distinguish between their affection for a well-loved human being and the needs of a government in which the president is indispensable 24 hours a day through four years. And disagreeable as it may be, they have to ask themselves who will succeed the president in the event of his incapacity.

These are perfectly proper questions and must be faced but, as Mr. Truman seems to be warning his friends, the Democratic party must present them discreetly and honestly, must reject the temptation to exploit for purely partisan purposes the health of a man whom all Americans, of every party, deeply admire.

If a legitimate constitutional issue is pressed too far, and in the wrong way, it will certainly boomerang against the Democrats.

Much will depend upon the personality of the Democratic candidate who must set the tone of the campaign. Mr. Truman's "give 'em hell" technique which succeeded in 1948 probably would be disastrous in 1956.

If the Democrats cannot afford to attack Mr. Eisenhower they always have Mr. Nixon, provided the Republicans renominate him for the vice-presidency, as seems probable. As the successor to the president Mr. Nixon seems likely to become the storm centre of the Democratic campaign, with Mr. Dulles as the secondary target of attack—assuming, of course, that Mr. Eisenhower runs again, as Senator Knowland says he will.

Not only the American people but the whole world, including the Communist nations, await the President's own word from Gettysburg where the health of one man has become such a decisive factor in human affairs.

Our Course Will Need Re-Charting

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

THERE was an appreciation of Jean Cocteau in a recent Sunday Times (London). I am prepared to believe that Cocteau is a great man. Or prepared to consider the idea, anyhow. And if not a great man, at least an interesting and enterprising one, and if he is a bit of a crackpot and poseur at times, so much the better.

Even if he did nothing except talk and act the part of being Jean Cocteau, he would still be a going concern. And there are, of course, his plays, films, novels, poems, drawings, ballets, criticism... what else do you want from one man?

But there was one sentence in the Sunday Times' tribute to him which left me a little breathless. It said: "Jean Cocteau has flirted with religion, and more than flirted with opium, and thus given proof of a spiritual quest which underlies his versatility." There are ways in which this sentence makes sense. Several people on a spiritual quest have attempted to use opium (and other drugs, including alcohol) to open what Huxley calls the doors of perception.

MOSTLY, these drugs have been very unsatisfactory indeed... to put it mildly... though Huxley hopes we will find a perfect one yet, and in the meantime he says kind things about mescaline and lysergic acid. A drug that makes you think the mud on your jacket is really medals is hardly a spiritual key to anything much. And if it wrecks your health and purse, and makes you a nuisance to yourself and your neighbors, the spiritual quest is apt to be rather circuitous. Tortuous, if not torturous.

In any event, while it is true that a few spiritual seekers have had a look at opium and such things, it does not follow that anyone who goes hold of these materials is on very much of a spiritual quest. He may be, but the chances are against it. It is much more likely that he is on what Huxley calls a chemical vacation from himself.

BUT THIS argument about "proof of quest" was not the only thing that made me jump a little. The other thing was the change in fashion which makes it possible for the Sunday Times to speak of dabbling in dope without any lifting of the moral eyebrows. It may imply that Cocteau is a bit eccentric, but not that he has broken any fatal taboo. This is a return to the viewpoint of last century.

That Coleridge and De Quincey took dope is accepted calmly enough. They were long ago. That Sherlock Holmes took dope seems rather shocking, now... more shocking than when he was created, perhaps. But when Noel Coward had a character taking dope in a play in the 20s... "The Vortex," was it?... it seemed very shocking indeed, and was meant to be shocking.

I do not think the shocked attitude is wholly bad. Or WAS, if it is disappearing. Once in a while taboo is a very useful thing, and so is fear.

AT PRESENT it is fashionable to think taboos and fear are awful things, very damaging... in fact, we are afraid of fear. But on the whole, I think I would prefer to have children afraid of opium, rather than have them think Jean Cocteau an interesting man (if not a spiritual man) for awarding himself a few small doses, or even a lot of big doses.

Fear and taboo may only be useful for stupid people, incapable of a wise, dispassionate, prudent interest in truth. But you would be surprised how many stupid people there are. And even some quite bright ones make mistakes. It isn't always the dumbest clucks who make the mistake of trying opium. The more fear and taboo on THIS subject, the better. Or so it seems to me. If you meet anyone who is afraid of the word taboo, try calling it Social Pressure, and he may then accept it.

WHEN I was young, my mother rented for us kids a very, very old Chaplin film. I think it was called "Easy Street." In this rather boring farce, Chaplin was a timid new cop, entirely at the mercy of a tough mob. But when he sat by mistake on a hypodermic needle belonging to his enemies, the drug made him perform wonders of strength, daring, and so on. This was meant to make you split your sides. My mother found it merely horrible. I, of a different age and a different generation, found it merely stupid. I dare say my attitude was artistically and scientifically more sound than hers. But sociologically she may have been on the right track.

Let me make it quite clear that I do not suggest treating addicts with anything but calm sympathy. I am putting in a good word for fear and shock as a preventative, not as a cure! Guilt after the event may be a great nuisance, or worse. But guilt in advance may be a good deterrent.

THE BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH In a recent article, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale (the Positive Thinker) says that if you think big, believe big, and act big, your dreams can come true. Why not talk big also? If you talk big enough you can persuade yourself (if not your audience) that your dreams have ALREADY come true.

PARROT-FEVER A main and sports-writer is under the impression that Long John Silver was a parrot. And it is, it is a glorious thing to be a parrot king. Pirate want a cracker? What fun if the other characters in "Treasure Island" were also animals. Billy Bones could be a spaniel, and Old Pew would of course be a skunk.

As Our Readers See It

Wage and Price Spiral

Referring to your editorial on the rising cost of living, I am of the opinion that there is only one effective way to stop the never-ending spiral of rising wages and prices for goods. It is drastic, I admit, but it did not fall during the last war as far as the stabilization of prices was concerned. Let the government bring in a measure rationing and controlling the prices of goods, and, at the same time, control wages. We have a minimum wage act, why not a maximum wage act—especially in times of emergency?

As I see it, the root of the evil today is the insatiable greed, alike, of labor and the vendors of goods. Means have got to be devised to make illegal the ever recurring strikes (where shown to be unwise and unjustified) brought on by the inordinate demands of labor.

Hundreds of thousands of old age and burnt-out war pensioners are being pushed to the verge of starvation by the ever decreasing purchasing power of the dollar. Don't let us brag about our high standard of living while a situation like this exists.

'The Right to Kill'

Students who know their Bible will take issue with Bruce Hutchison "The Right to Kill" on July 7 where he says: "Whether a society calling itself Christian ever has the right to take human life, contrary to the instructions of its Founder, is a nice point of theology."

Jesus Christ, the Founder of Christianity, ratified the law given at Mount Sinai to every Jew and Gentile in his famous Sermon on the Mount, Matt. 5:17, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law or the prophets. I am not come to destroy but to fulfill."

Now the law regarding the right to kill (murder), is plain, brief and specific: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." Gen. 9:6.

"He that smiteth a man so that he die shall surely be put to death." Ex. 21:12. The law regarding this matter is further set forth in Numbers 35:16-21 and 32. Vss. 22-23 legislate for manslaughter. Deut. 17:6 demands sufficient evidence in a crime, and Chap. 21:1-9 requires an inquest to be held on the finding of a dead body.

Advertising What?

I heartily endorse the letter in the Times of July 4, re advertising B.C.'s foods and not the premier's profile. People get rather tired and fed up on self praise and admiration of oneself.

REPORT FROM OTTAWA By VICTOR MACKIE

Urging an Unwanted Election

OPPOSITION LEADER George Drew during his recent appearance in the free-time television broadcasts allocated to each party by the CBC, made a good impression with his obvious ease of manner before the TV cameras.

He also made an appeal to Canadians to support his party's demand for an early election. He urged his viewers to write to the Prime Minister and other members of the Government urging that Parliament be dissolved. The response has not been good. Letters received by Prime Minister St. Laurent's office to date as a result of Mr. Drew's appeal: five.

Mackie

Outcome of the provincial elections in Quebec and Saskatchewan have been subjected to close scrutines by Liberals at Ottawa; conclusion—nothing to cheer about in either province.

The change of name for the CCF party in Quebec did little to bring it support in that province. The Social Democratic Party which ran 14 candidates on Montreal Island obtained only about 50 per cent of the vote it polled in 1952 when the candidates ran under the CCF banner. It had been hoped by that group that the change in name might prove beneficial at the polls. Some party supporters ruefully concluded that the name change was harmful rather than helpful.

Said one: "Many believed us to be Social Crediters." The Social Democratic Party was completely submerged in the barrage of publicity for the two principal groups in the Quebec campaign—National Union and Liberals.

Abolition

Meantime the orthodox Social Credit group in Quebec is anxious to obliterate its old Quebec group, Union des Electeurs, which publicly supported the Liberals in the Quebec provincial election. The national Social Credit organization wants no part or parcel of the Union des Electeurs. It has been denounced by Social Credit National Leader Solon Low as undemocratic and anti-Semitic.

The national organization has established in Quebec a new Quebec Social Credit League with the avowed aim of wooing the Union des Electeurs' membership, estimated at around 800,000. So far the Social Credit League has experienced little success. Incidentally federal Liberals are far from happy with the support the Social Credit group in the House of Commons has been giving the Liberal Government. They were made doubly unhappy over the affiliation in Quebec between the Liberals and the Union des Electeurs. The federal Liberals would like to shake off the albatross.

Confident

Progressive Conservatives are now confident that the Liberal administration will not go to the country this year no matter what happens in the House of Commons. The Conservatives themselves are now less inclined to view an early election with enthusiasm. They are now looking forward to a test of strength at the polls in June, 1957.

In the meantime there is always the possibility that unexpected developments may take place that will redound to the benefit of the Tories, they keep telling themselves. Such developments, the Conservatives contend, could include: the crystallizing of public opinion against the 'Dominion'

I would like to comment on Mr. Kenny's letter in the Times.

He says Canada is a nation. Now there is no doubt that Canada is a nation and I think a good one. But I fail to see the objection to the name Dominion of Canada.

When the founders of this country sought a name for it they turned to the Bible, and the passage from Psalm 72, verse 8, "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth." In other words God was to have dominion over our fair land.

If this country fails to keep God as its head then it will soon become a poor country, but there need be no limit to our greatness if God be our ruler. Indeed, this country should be called The Dominion of Canada. The name should never be changed.

Canada's Wealth

The fact that the wealth of Canada is gradually being given away to big business interests in the U.S.A. by our appointed government officials is, to say the least, very discouraging.

Those of us who have spent practically all our lives in western Canada, and are now at about the end of our allotted time, probably take matters more seriously than some of the younger folks of our country. It is quite reasonable also to realize that large numbers of immigrants, having settled in various parts of our country recently, will not likely lose much sleep over the issue of political give-aways.

Most of those who pioneered and opened up the west, worked hard long hours, with the hopes their children would eventually enjoy a more cultured life. It is not pleasing to realize our country's wealth is being given away for little more than a song, as lack of wealth will eventually hamper the advancement of our younger folks, and our country.

We find the oil and gas supplies throughout the province of Alberta have been handed over to big business in the U.S.A. by the so-called Social Credit government. The pipe line to the east is to be given away to the same big U.S.A. corporations by our federal officials. Here in B.C. we note the S.C. party leaders, through their short-sightedness, making efforts to give away our valuable water supplies to the same big U.S.A. monied corporations.

Canada's wealth should be protected and used for the benefit and security of the Canadian people.

J. MITCHELL.

Patient, Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Deadline

In response to a question from the opposition, Trade and Commerce Minister Howe disclosed recently in the Commons that the Federal Government crown company, Northern Ontario Pipe Line Corporation, has received from the treasury the sum of $20,000 for working capital and the sum of $6,775,000 for advances to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited. The $6,775,000 was advanced to the private pipe line company on June 18 and the crown company received in exchange a five per cent mortgage bond in the same amount.

Delay in making the advance until June 18, or 11 days after the June 7 deadline by which Parliament was told the pipeline legislation must be passed, raises some doubt as to the extreme urgency of the enactment of the legislation by the deadline date.

Shortages

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, in its drive to get work started on building the prairie section of the all-Canadian pipeline, has encountered shortages in the necessary skilled manpower.

The company, for example, sent out a call for 30 graduate engineers. But after trying many sources such as universities, and companies in the east and west, it had only lined up a handful of the required engineers. As a result the company may be forced to hire more trained men from the United States than it had originally planned to employ.

The number of men required to build a pipeline is not large—between 2,000 and 3,000 for the Alberta to Winnipeg stretch. But the majority must be skilled workers.

Startling

The CF-105 and the North American "Magnum Line" of radar defences would be of little value in a war of intercontinental missiles, Lieut.-Gen. Guy Simonds, former Canadian army chief of the general staff, stressed recently at a Toronto meeting.

He rapped over-emphasis on the radar defences which he argued could never be more than partially effective. His view corresponds with conclusions reached by the United States Senate armed services subcommittee that the DEW line is ineffective as planned, would soon be obsolete, and within a few years useless. Opposition members intend to raise this point of view in the defence debate.

SAME DIFFERENCE

The creation of male and female was indeed a masterpiece. It was a means of arranging not only that human life would continue, but also that it would continue in perpetual commotion: understandings and misunderstandings, splendors and miseries. But at least it would never be dull, so long as men and women are partly like, and partly unlike.

Outdoes Marilyn Monroe

LONDON—Headed your way is Diana Dors (real surname: Fluck). She is to make a movie in Hollywood with TV star George Gobel called "I Married a Woman" and I'll be surprised if you don't hear a lot about her on and off the set. Although quite a few gals here try and outdo Marilyn Monroe, she is the one who has the legitimate claim to being England's equivalent.

She's worked hard to become England's No. 1 glamour girl and it has taken her 10 years to get up there. She started off plump and dark-haired. She has managed to pare off most of the excess poundage, while letting it remain in excess where it would do her most good in the pin-up world, and she has switched to platinum blonde.

Reyburn

No one took her very seriously in her early days because her efforts to get her pictures in the papers included such things as appearing at a film festival in a mink bikini. Also, like Marilyn, she posed in the nude but went a couple of steps further in that her figure was to be seen in 3-D and the booklet devoted to these "art studies" (complete with viewing glasses) was grabbed off the newsstands by the police and there was a charge of indecency. However, the court couldn't find any indecency and the brochure "Diana Dors in 3-D" can be bought at any semi-respectable newsstand.

But following these desperate efforts to get herself talked about, the public here has started to take her seriously. Reason is that she's not a bad actress at all. You may have seen her in the British films "Value for Money" and "A Kid For Two Farthings," in both of which she gave creditable performances.

In her latest, just released here and shortly to be in your part of the world, she has had high praise as a genuine actress. It is "Yield to the Night," about what it is like to be a woman in the condemned cell waiting to be hanged.

It is topical for two reasons. First, it comes at a time when this country is split very definitely on this subject of whether the death penalty should or should not go. Seeing what a condemned woman goes through (the detail the film goes into makes it almost a documentary) prompts one to hasten to abolish the death penalty.

And the second reason it is topical is that, by coincidence, the plot parallels the recent Ruth Ellis case—the night club girl who emptied a revolver at her rival.

YOUR HEALTH

Relief From Hay Fever

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant to Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation.

Soon those many unfortunate who suffer from hay fever will be sneezing and wheezing and sniffing. Those who have money and do not have to work can go to some place like the north shore of Lake Superior where they can find relief. Those who have to remain in ragweed country can do a few things to help themselves. Some can get help from desensitizing injections, and others can get help at night by sleeping in a room from which the pollen has largely been removed by a filter in the window, or an air-conditioner.

Dr. Alvarez

Many years ago I used to correspond with Dr. Van Leersum, a Hollander, who, as I remember, was one of the first men in the world to teach that persons with hay fever and asthma can get help by sleeping in a room containing filtered air. He early sent me blueprints for an inexpensive air-cleaner which he was accustomed to have made for his patients. It consisted of a box in which was a fan that blew air from the outside into the room. On each side of the fan he put a glass fibre type of air filter. The apparatus was placed in the window of the patient's bedroom, and with this, many patients got considerable relief. Such air cleaners now have become commercially, but many of the do-it-yourself enthusiasts may be able to make one in their basement workshop. Today small electric pollen precipitators are available. The in-the-window type of air-conditioner helps many patients because so much of the pollen in the air falls out with the water which gathers on the cooling fins of the machine.

AN IGNORANT SWINDLER

I recently read in the paper about a man who, in some devious way, obtained a licence to practice medicine in a certain American state. According to the paper, in 1938 he served a prison term for being in the abortion business. In 1945, with the help of some influence, he overrode the objections of his state medical board and got back his licence to practice. In 1949, after an examination, he was reported to be too incompetent to practice as a physician, but since the people are not interested in having only educated physicians working for them, the man kept on practicing. Later, the Appellate Court of the state ruled that after a fairly conducted examination he had failed and hence had no right to practice. But the man "knew the right people" and went on with his work.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Soon he was in jail for cheating people; and so, in 1952, his licence was again revoked. He had been swindling diabetics by selling for $30 a supposed "cure" for the disease. It consisted of water with a little vinegar in it!

For the next two years the man kept in practice by appealing constantly to higher courts for a re-hearing. Finally, the Supreme Court of the state decided against him and referred his case back to the Appellate Court. Now the man will doubtless keep out of jail for more years by asking for re-hearings. In the meantime he goes on, presumably swindling people. One can only feel sorry for any unfortunate person who consults him. According to the state authorities, the man, first, is not competent to practice medicine, and second, is a crook and a swindler.

Why don't I mention the man's name? Because experts tell me that when the health authorities expose a man as a fake doctor and swindler and ex-jail-bird, people feel so sorry for him, being supposedly persecuted by the American Medical Association, that they flock to his door as patients!

After telling in this column of the stupidity of going to cancer quacks, I have had many a man write me saying that a well-loved mother had hopeless cancer, and would I please tell them of a good quack to take her to. Poor fellow; because of his great love and his desperation, he was willing to be robbed of his savings if only he could give his mother some hope, even for a few months!

HOPE IN LUNG CANCER

At the recent meeting of U.S. General Practitioners, Drs. H. D. Adams, D. P. Boyd, C. R. Souders and S. H. Jones, of the Lahey Clinic, reported five cases in which powerful radiation had completely destroyed a cancer in the chest. This is good news. But it means that everyone, and especially every former smoker of two or three packs a day, who gets a chronic cough that does not soon let up, should go quickly for a thorough examination of his lungs. If he waits too long, a good surgeon may still be able to remove the tumor in his chest, but he won't be able to remove scattered daughter-growths (the metastases).

HOME GARDEN By HILDA BEASTALL

Yet Time to Plant Seed of Perennials

Sowing the seed of flowering perennial plants may still be done, but it should not be delayed beyond this week.

The aim is to have the young plants large enough to winter safely outdoors, or in a cold frame if garden space will not be available until spring.

There are certain kinds of perennials which are not recommended to gardeners as being suitable to raise from seed. Phlox and Michaelmas daisy (perennial or hardy aster) are two which are frequently listed in seed catalogs, yet only one plant in a thousand thus grown would be worth keeping.

Hilda

On the other hand, seed of the various members of the dianthus family (pinks and carnations) will yield a multitude of interesting and desirable garden plants.

If the seedlings are picked out into a sheltered spot for the summer in fine, rich soil they should grow rapidly. What will then be ready to plant into what is known as a nursery row where they will ultimately produce their first flowers. It is during this first flowering that selection should be made of only the finest plants.

Color, form, texture and habit of the plants are all to be considered, and only the best retained.

The remainder go on the compost heap. Less than the best is not good enough to give to your friends.

Girl Trapped For 9 Days Leaves Bed

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Jean Margetts, who survived nine days under a wrecked automobile, has recorded a couple of "firsts" on her road to recovery.

Tuesday the 18-year-old Sunnyvale, Calif., girl sat up in a wheelchair for the first time. And today doctors allowed her bathroom privileges.

A brief bulletin issued today by her doctor said: "Her spirits are good. But she still has made no comment concerning her accident."

Jean, badly emaciated, was found trapped under the wreckage of a car at the bottom of a 300-foot embankment east of here July 3. Nearby lay the body of her fiancé, James B. Hixon Jr., 22, of Salt Lake City. The car had gone over the embankment June 24.

DRIVER CHARGED
PRINCE GEORGE — Melvin Kiem, a 32-year-old sawmill worker, has been charged with manslaughter following the death of Edward Miller, 47.

Miller was struck and killed by an automobile at an intersection here last week. Kiem was released on $5,000 bail.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Marpole Bridge Open Next Week

VANCOUVER — D. D. Godfrey, district highways engineer, said Tuesday Vancouver's Marpole Bridge will be back in operation "by the end of next week at the latest," and perhaps by next Tuesday or Wednesday.

He said crews are working around the clock to repair the bridge, damaged last week by a scow.

City police said there has been no repetition of Monday's six-hour jam which lined up cars for two miles past the Fraser Bridge and caused some airlines passengers to miss their flights because of late buses.

EXPLANATION

VANCOUVER — Vancouver's Mayor Fred Hume will seek an explanation of Premier W. A. C. Bennett's statement that he will do everything in his power to "protect the Sabbath" against commercial Sunday sports.

The mayor said he may see Mr. Bennett in Victoria today or arrange a meeting when the premier visits Vancouver Thursday.

"The people of Vancouver have voted for Sunday sports and I would like to find out from him what his explanation is."

BOOST ASKED

VANCOUVER — The 30 life guards who patrol Vancouver's civic beaches think they should get more than $1.29 an hour to fish people out of the water.

They have asked for a 21-cent hourly increase to bring their wages more in line with the $1.59 paid other civic workers.

MILLER NAMED

VANCOUVER — Appointment of Alderman George C. Miller as city council representative of Vancouver's new board of administration was announced Tuesday by Mayor Fred Hume. The appointment completes the four-man board, which will begin full operation within a week. Other members are Mayor Hume, Frank Jones, commissioner of finance, and John Oliver, commissioner of works.

CONTRACT LET

VANCOUVER — B.C. Electric has awarded a $1,400,000 contract to Northern Construction Co. and J. W. Stewart Ltd. for construction of a 30,000-horsepower generating station at Bridge River's Lajoie Dam, 100 miles northeast of here.

BIG MONEY

VANCOUVER — Only 125 men have been applied for jobs worth $16,000 for 18 months with free room and board on the DEW radar line, an official of Western Radio Electronic television schools said Tuesday.

LONG TERM

BURNABY — Reeve Charles MacSorey says the Olson report on Burnaby's municipal government may take years to implement.

Council, studying the report, was told that appointing a municipal manager instead of the present chief administrative officer would probably involve amending the Municipal Act.

THIN EDGE

SOUTH WESTMINSTER — The South Westminster OCF Club charges that seizure of the documents of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and investigation of the organization under the Combine Investigation Act is the "thin edge of the wedge."

The CCF body says it is concerned that all unions may be attacked by "those hostile to the protection given the working people."

OPTOMETRISTS MEET

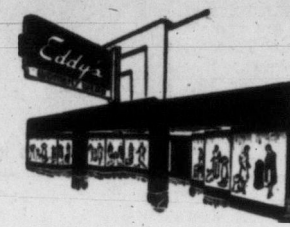

PENTICTON — Dr. H. Jarvis of Vancouver was re-elected president of the B.C. Optometrists' Association Tuesday, the second day of the annual meeting here.

UN-BOUND

PENTICTON — A Penticton boy and an Oliver girl will join a group Wednesday night on its way to visit the United Nations. Verne Simpson and Arlene McKinley, zone winners in a speaking contest, will join a month-long tour that will take a B.C. contingent and 33 other young persons to New York.

Bennett Surplus Talk Draws Opposition Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two B.C. political leaders condemned the provincial government Tuesday for keeping consumer taxes at a high level despite "massive" budget surpluses.

CCF opposition leader Robert Strachan said the Social Credit government "not only underestimates its revenues, but overestimates its expenditures," producing a "terrific" surplus at the end of the year.

"Premier Bennett should either give the people what he says he's going to give them, or reduce the sales tax immediately," he said. Mr. Bennett said Monday that B.C.'s revenue surplus for the current financial year was underestimated by at least $5,600,000.

Liberal leader Arthur Laing said the surplus shows a "tremendous dependency" on consumer taxes. "Consumer taxes are now running at the fantastic rate of $90 a year for every man," he said. "Such excessive taxation is possible only in a construction-camp economy such as the province is currently experiencing."

"It's placing a wholly unbearable burden upon pensioners and those on low fixed incomes," he added.

Bachelor Surplus

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — New Zealand has a surplus of 12,000 bachelors, a government statistician said here Tuesday. He warned, however, that women coming here for husbands better look for them in the country, as there was a surplus of spinsters in the cities.

PILOT STRICKEN, NOVICE FLIER GETS PLANE DOWN

YANKTON, S.D. (AP) — A passenger who had taken a few flying lessons took over the controls and safely landed a light plane Tuesday after the pilot suffered a fatal heart attack.

George Burrell, who hired the plane to inspect power lines for a rural electric co-operative, took control of the craft when he saw the pilot, Harold Davidson, was ill.

He headed the plane toward the Yankton airport and landed on the longest runway without mishap. Davidson, operator of the airport, was dead on arrival at a hospital here.

NEW ANTISEPTIC DEODORANT safely stops perspiration 1 to 3 days

Clinical tests prove that ARRID, now with Perstop, is $1\frac{1}{2}$ times as effective as other leading deodorants. Arrid's antiseptic protection keeps underarms dry and odorless.

1. Safely stops perspiration and odour.
2. Will not irritate normal skin.
3. Protects clothes from stains and clinging odours.
4. Soft, gentle vanishing cream. Never dries out.
5. Easy to use! Rub Arrid in, rub perspiration and odour out.

More Canadians use Arrid than any other deodorant.

DON'T BE HALF-SAFE. USE ARRID—TO BE SURE!

17-YEAR-OLD GIRL WILL TACKLE STRAIT

City teen-ager Anita Long, 17, youngest swimmer to make a bid on Juan de Fuca, plans to hit the water in her first try at 8 a.m. Wednesday, July 18.

Coach-manager Gerry Lavigne said she will be sponsored by Canadian Stainless Steel and Around the Clock Grill, with Capt. H. R. Robinson as navigator.

Anita has been training for months and is in "top condition," Mr. Lavigne said.

NANAIMO ROUNDUP

New Swimming Pool To Mark Centennial

NANAIMO (CP)—The city council and B.C. centenary committee here will build a public swimming pool as its centennial memorial.

A pool topped the list of recreational needs in a questionnaire circulated here four years ago.

A meeting of local organizations will be called here to draft an outline of a proposed regional planning board, Mayor Earle Westwood said Tuesday.

He said the draft would be submitted to cabinet for approval.

City council has passed on the town planning commission requests for rezoning involving a number of sites including a $245,000 shopping centre proposed for the area between the Island Highway and Departure Bay Road.

PGE Extension Northward To Be Further Probed

Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd said Tuesday "further investigation" into plans to push the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to the Yukon and Alaska will follow a preliminary investigation made recently.

Mr. Chetwynd said a preliminary economic survey has been made by Ted Glover and James Kingston of the Bureau of Economics and Statistics.

"I have just returned to Victoria," the minister said, "after travelling over a route close to the Alaska Highway and Whitehorse in the Yukon and Fairbanks, Alaska."

"They will make a written report on whether the extension would be economically feasible."

Mr. Chetwynd said the experts had told him verbally they would recommend further investigation.

Premier Bennett said last week he was calling for a three-way agreement between provincial, federal and United States governments to extend the PGE into Alaska.

Dispute to UN
PARIS (Reuters)—Prime Minister Chaudhri Mohammad Ali of Pakistan said Tuesday his government will take its dispute with India over Kashmir to the United Nations Security Council. The premier arrived here for a three-day official visit.

Comox Bomber Burns; 4 Escape

COMOX (AP)—A Mitchell bomber, one of its two engines

afire, circled back to the RCAF air base here Tuesday and then exploded and burned seconds after the four men aboard landed it and fled.

The men, all from Calgary, escaped uninjured. The bomber scattered burning parts into surrounding bush areas as it returned to the runway shortly after takeoff. The resulting bush fires took four hours to control and the plane itself burned for 90 minutes on the runway where it had been abandoned.

Pilot Douglas R. Anderson and co-pilot M. A. Taylor, both employed by Canadian Pacific Air Lines, flew the aircraft here on a test flight from Calgary, where it had been serviced by CPA under an agreement with the RCAF covering Mitchells.

At Comox they picked up Ptl. Lt. D. R. Souter and Ptl. Sgt. M. Labine, who had flown a T-33 jet trainer here from Calgary and were getting a ride home.

Just after take-off, one engine caught fire. The pilot headed back and crash-landed. As the four men ran to safety, the fuel tanks exploded.

"The CPA pilot did a magnificent job getting the plane down so soon," an RCAF official here commented. "A few seconds later and all four men could have been lost."

MORE MEASLES

The number of reported cases of measles in Canada rose to 56,922 in 1955 from 36,850 the previous year.

Last Man Identified In Vananda Drownings

VANANDA, Texas Island (CP)—The last of four men drowned when their car plunged into Priest Lake on Texas Island Sunday night was identified by police Tuesday as George W. Jolliffe of Vancouver.

Police searched for two days for the man's wife before they could release his name. She was located in Calgary.

C. C. Jacklin, 59, Dies in His Sleep

NANAIMO—Charles Christopher Jacklin, 59, one of Vancouver Island's best-known policemen, died Tuesday night in his sleep of a heart attack.

He joined the B.C. Police in Victoria, and served in both

Victoria and Nanaimo prior to transfer to Prince Rupert.

He was transferred back to Victoria during the war years, then was sent to Nanaimo for a second time. After the RCMP took over the B.C. Police he became NCO in charge of the Nanaimo detachment until his retirement in 1952.

BOY MISSING

NELSON—City police and RCMP are seeking a 17-year-old boy, Lennert Van Weenen of Nelson, missing from his home since Sunday.

ASSESSMENT FOR JAIL PROTESTED

Central Saanich Council objects to paying $300 annually for the use of Victoria city jail, claiming the municipality is law-abiding and that the jail accommodation is infrequently used.

"We are paying that rental and not using the jail at all," commented Coun. Ray Lamont. He moved that a compromise offer of "$150 without prejudice," be made.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

In order to minimize traffic problems and to cause least inconvenience to the public, it is proposed to apply asphalt spray to Government Street from Belleville to Discovery St., on Sunday, 15th July (subject to weather conditions). During this operation, which will occupy the whole of Sunday, Government Street between the above mentioned streets will be closed to all traffic but crossings will be permitted at Yates St. or Johnson St. All B.C. Electric buses which normally use Government St. will run on Douglas St.

J. C. GARNETT,
City Engineer.

Meet the NEW boss of the family!

Are we proud of our new Pontiac? You bet! Every time I think about this Pontiac's superb performance I want to get in and start driving. And style!... comfort!...real luxury! Well, just look at it! And when you get your Pontiac you'll say it, too. It's great—simply great!

Being a woman, I'm naturally attracted to color and style...and this new Pontiac of ours—as well as all the others we see on the roads—is teaching me lots of new tricks with color and design. Pontiac's trim good looks make it easy to "dress up" to. That's important...and very pleasant!

Isn't it divine...I mean, really! Absolutely everybody is proud of our new car—and not just because it's another Pontiac. It's because...well, it's a little hard to explain, but I guess it's because Pontiac this year is the most—a real cool car. I mean...really!

Gee whiz! I'm the most popular guy on the street—all the kids want rides in our new car. Dad's new Pontiac is even better than the last one...and he's been getting Pontiacs for a long, long time. When I'm old enough to own a car, it'll be a Pontiac, too!

Add a lift to your family living...

Record Entries In Cruiser Race

30-Year History of International Event Featured by Many 'Incidents'

By DON INGHAM

On Saturday the continent's largest—from the standpoint of number of entries—cruiser race will finish at Nanaimo after an overnight run from Poughkeepsie, Wash., near Bremerton.

A record entry of 200 yachts is expected.

It is a predicted log race, meaning that each captain picks his own course, starting time, and running speed, which he lists with the race committee. In the actual race he follows these data in the hope of arriving at the finish line at a time set beforehand by the committee.

An observer goes along on his boat to see that he follows his own rules. In the event that temptation might rear its ugly head, the observer also looks up all timepieces aboard and disconnects the radio.

The good navigator, who figured his course well then sailed it truly, will hit the finish line right on the second. With 200 boats entered, and all trying to be at the same place at the same time, a bit of a melee could develop.

As a matter of fact, it has.

Most Cruise at 8-9 Knots

Most of the yachts cruise at 8 to 9 knots, and therefore approach the finish line between two markers in a fairly orderly manner.

I recall one year, though, when a large number of craft were converging sedately on the line, something was seen to enter the harbor at high speed. It turned out to be a 48-foot Hucks cruiser that was in the race, and was driving to the line at 20 knots under the thrust of two 325-horsepower Scripps engines.

The skipper was forced to snake through the pack like a police car on a rush call in heavy traffic, and great was the wrath he called down upon himself as his lofty wake seethed over the others.

There was little else he could do, of course. He was committed to that speed in his entry, and could not slacken off without disqualifying himself.

A few days later, though, the captains who gulped at the big grey cruiser passed them had a chuckle when they learned the same craft had run afoul of authorities at Prince Rupert.

It was during wartime, and she raced into the northern harbor at well over 20 knots, only to have a few shots fired over her bow by the Royal Canadian Navy that slowed her considerably.

16-20 Hours Running Time

She, of course, was an exception. The race is designed to give yachts of average speed the best of tidal conditions at Deception Pass and Dods Narrows, where the current reaches speeds of eight knots.

The race calls for a late evening or night start, as a rule, and steady running of from 16 to 20 hours depending on boat speed and distance from start to finish.

It was started about 30 years ago as a "capital to capital" race from Olympia, Wash., to Juneau, Alaska. After having been run as such for a few years it was found to be too gruelling for most skippers and their families, who customarily combine the race with their annual holidays.

It ran to Victoria as a "capital to capital" race, and the American yachtsmen, who make up the majority of the entries, liked the international aspect of that race so much that it was decided to race regularly to different points in Canadian waters.

The "international cruiser race," as it is now known, has finished in Victoria, Nanaimo, Vancouver and Cowichan Bay. Nanaimo, though, is chosen most often by the Puget Sound Power Boat Association, governing body of the race, because of convenience.

SATISFACTORY TEST

It is just the right distance from Puget Sound ports for a good run—long enough for a satisfactory test but short enough to spare the crews undue fatigue. Facilities are adequate, and the city is small enough so that visitors are fairly well concentrated and always with fellow yachtsmen, wherever they may be.

What I suspect was another important reason now is gone. It used to be that the town clock in the post office tower was visible from two miles away, and mariners desperate to know the time and how they were doing therefore had the answer about 20 minutes before they crossed the finish line.

With a clockless monolith replacing the little old post office it remains to be seen whether the port will prove as popular as usual. If the race ends next year at Jordan River or Cattle Point, we can guess why.

WATERFRONT SQUABBLE

Permit To Extend Mooring At Brentwood Sparks Row

SAANICHTON—With Reeve H. R. Brown voting in the negative, Central Saanich municipal council Tuesday night carried a motion sponsored by Coun. Harry A. Peard which granted Claude Creed a temporary permit to extend his boat mooring to extend his boat mooring facilities on the Brentwood waterfront.

At the last meeting of council Mr. Creed was charged with violating the municipal building by-laws by building what he described as a "catwalk" linking his floats, without first obtaining a permit, and he was ordered to remove it. Mr. Creed returned to the council chamber Tuesday night in a penitent mood and appealed for permission to re-erect the "catwalk" properly under approved permit.

"I'm opposed to it," said

Reeve Brown, adding that he was against anyone monopolizing the waterfront. "Mr. Creed has 40 feet of waterfront and I think he's got quite enough."

This led to a heated argument between the reeve and Mr. Creed in which the boat operator shouted, "You're riding me on this deal." He apologized for his hasty remarks as the reeve rapped for order.

HE'S A PLAID LAD NOW

The 20-year-old Duke of Kent, often accused of looking frowzy in public, was acclaimed today as the creator of a new style: plaid pants with a long-tailed morning coat. The recognition came from Taylor and Cutter magazine. The Queen's gay young cousin wore the outfit Tuesday at a wedding. The duke is shown above dancing at a night club on a holiday visit to Madrid. AROUND AND ABOUT

With Jo Healy

CAYCUSE — IT WAS WHILE WE WERE ADMIRING a fantastic assortment of eyeglass frames, and wondering why women who buy five or six different hats and pairs of shoes a year will balk like the well-known mule at the suggestion that their three-year-old eye frames are getting outdated and unbecoming, that the blow fell. I had remarked that whereas the eyes are the most expressive feature of the face, if they must be framed, frame them to the best advantage.

My favorite optometrist joined in the conversation and explained some indisputable facts about eyes. Disenchantment shook me to the core as he casually remarked that eyes have absolutely no expression of their own. Cover the entire face, eyelids and all, and the owner of eyes and face can run the whole gamut of every known emotion without the eyes expressing any reaction; except for expansion and contraction which, says friend optometrist, is merely an involuntary muscular spasm.

ALL THE FEELING THAT APPEARS TO BE REFLECTED by the eyes is caused entirely by the play of the facial muscles, said that unkind destroyer of illusions. Or by the deepening or change in the mere lines of the face; or the movement of the mouth or nose, the lifting of an eyebrow. The eyes remain the same.

After groping wildly for some concrete point upon which to pin the expert, I mildly suggested that I had seen the dullest, tireddest eyes come to life with the tipping of an alcoholic drink. I had watched some mighty weary orbs sparkle and lose that almost opaque look of extreme exhaustion or boredom as the effects of liquor spread to the brain.

"OF COURSE," EXPLAINED THE OPTOMETRIST patiently. "A drink or two—and you know of course that alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant—tends to relax the drinker, and as the tense lines and muscles relax, the entire face takes on animation. The eyelids open wider, the person perhaps laughs and smiles, and the consequent play of facial expression gives the eyes the effect of dancing or brightening. Again the eyes remain unchanged, but for the involuntary contraction which sharpens their appearance, or the expansion which tends to give a person a dreamy, vague expression."

Although stated in coldly scientific terms, and I can see the logic of it all, I refuse to accept such disillusionment. And though I may not go along with the belief of more romantic writers than I that the eyes are "mirrors of the soul," the old fascination of eyes that blaze in anger, eyes that light with joy, eyes that darken with sorrow, and glow with love will continue to enchant me. It happens, I know. I've seen it happen with my own two eyes.

Face the day with a frown?

Central Saanich Facing Lawsuit

Ex-Reeve Pickles Threatens Action
Unless 'His' Fire Truck Returned

SAANICHTON—Central Saanich council faces the prospect of a lawsuit if the No. 1 standby fire truck is not returned to former reeve Sydney Pickles.

Possible legal action to recover the truck, which has done fire duty for five years, was hinted by Mr. Pickles in a letter to council.

Mr. Pickles paid out $600 of his own funds for the truck and another $200 was spent in equipping the vehicle. He claims he never donated the truck to the municipality, and now that the council is considering replacing it he wants it back.

Council, at its last meeting, decided to seek expert advice from the legal firm of Green, McQuarrie & Howard, which ruled that Mr. Pickles had no legal title to the truck with an absence of any evidence to support his claims. The firm further claimed that the vehicle had municipal funds invested in it.

Coun. Peter Warren and

Coun. Ray Lamont both stated they had interviewed Mr. Pickles, who informed them he was not interested in monetary reimbursement. He merely wanted the truck back with the intention of passing it along to another area needing fire protection.

Reeve H. R. Brown said he was strongly opposed to saddling the municipality with a costly lawsuit, saying he was in favor of getting further advice from "our own legal advisers."

GREYHOUND

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

"My team" lost Tuesday in the annual all-star baseball game at Washington, D.C.

But I don't really care if the National Leaguers whipped the stuffing out of my heroes. Baseball always has had an indefinable something that makes a defeat easy to take.

Call it what you like, but generally it's a fascination that hits everyone—the fellow on the bus, the gas-station attendant, the restaurant waiter.

Or maybe it's a form of self-identification transposed from our every-day walk of life to the field of play.

Most of us played the game at one time or another. And most of us watch, or listen to, a game as if we were part of the contest—making the plays the stars make, taking a cut at the ball; rearing back and throwing that high, hard one; or taking that long, lonely walk from the mound as a relief pitcher comes in from the bull pen.

"What about that guy, Boyer? He really came up with a couple of stops, didn't he... and Williams, what a better... Mante, the fellow was hurting, and when he hit his home run he seemed to hit it with one hand..."

Comments like these are commonplace of Tuesday's game.

Hero One Day, Ordinary the Next

And baseball, too, is the great common denominator. The heroes often fall and the unknowns become heroes. One expects the Mantles, the Kluszewskis and the Musials to hit for the distance, but there's a thrill even when they don't. That's what gives baseball the appeal to the every-day Joe; the unexpected has as much to offer as the expected.

And who would argue that baseball isn't one of the greatest team games ever? A pitcher can toss the leather at better than 100 miles per hour and figuratively thread a needle with the pitch; a shortstop can charge a ball and make a putout look simple, but take a backward step on the same play and the runner is safe.

The exquisite balance of the game is almost indescribable—the bases seem to be exactly the right distance to make the double play possible, the batter being tossed out by an eyelash on a stolen base attempt, it's touch and go until the dust settles at second base... the pitcher can humble the greatest hitter on one pitch and then solemnly watch his next effort fall into the stands for a home run.

A Pennant on One Pitch

There's drama with every pitch, with every fielding play; one mistake can change the course of the game, or a pennant race—like the time Bobby Thomson hit that bases-loaded home run for the New York Giants in the wind-up game of the 1952 season to put the Giants in the world series and keep the Dodgers out. Thomson's one swing decided an entire 153-game schedule that season.

Yesterday it was a case of too much pitching by the National Leaguers. But what would have happened if Boyer hadn't made the two great stops he did; if Willie Mays, after wildly missing the first strike, hadn't clubbed his pinch hit home run which gave the National Leaguers a working margin; if...

But that again is what makes baseball.

You're in the Game, Always

The real fan can't compete in the game himself, but through hero-worship he makes every play as if he was in uniform on the field. And he talks as if he did, as if he was Johnny Antonelli of the New York Giants who spiked a dangerous American League rally; as if he struck out Mante three times, which is what the Yankee slugger did.

So really I don't mind that the American Leaguers lost; the same two teams could play again today, and I'd root for my favorites; and I'd be back again tomorrow if they lost.

Because, you see, I happen to like baseball, and feel I'm on the field with the players. Which to me is baseball, truly a great team spectacle.

Brodies Boost Lead, But Pity the Smokies

There was expansion at both ends of the Senior "B" Softball League standings Tuesday night.

Halecos Boost Lead

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Halecos consolidated their first-place position in the Pacific coast summer soccer league Tuesday night, with a 4-2 victory over fourth-place St. Andrews at Callister Park.

John Swan scored both St. Andrews goals three minutes apart. Swan missed his big chance both for a hat trick when on a penalty shot he hit the goal post.

Brian Philley scored two for Halecos. Halecos young McLeod brothers, Norm and Gord, each scored once.

Firefighters jumped into a 6-1 lead after two innings but couldn't hold it. Brodies' pitcher, Dixie Harper, recovered his composure and gave up only two runs over the last seven innings while Brodies hopped all over Ray Hough for eight runs in the fourth.

Marg Mahoney tops Golf Medal Round

Marg Mahoney scored a double this week in the medal round for golfers with handicaps of 15 and under at Colwood Golf Club.

Miss Mahoney won the low gross with an 85 and shared the low net with Mrs. B. Humber and Mrs. E. Smith, all scoring 75's.

Solarium Corner

This Saturday, Dave Donaldson is going to start his big push toward helping the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association reach its $7,000 Solarium Derby goal.

Dave would have started sooner, but he has been hospitalized recently with a siege of pneumonia. It has slowed down his ticket sales somewhat.

Dave, who has been with the VSIAA almost since its inception, is now an honorary member, and his main interest now is "helping the kids."

All proceeds from the July 22 derby, co-sponsored by the Times, go to the Queen Alexandra Solarium for crippled children.

Less than two weeks remain for anglers to get their tickets for the derby, and a chance at the $4,000 prize list. If you can spare one dollar, you can buy a ticket. Get yours from Dave Donaldson at 4-6835.

British Open 'Antiquated' Says Leonard

BOISCHATEL, Que. (CP)—Golfers Stan Leonard Tuesday compared the famed British Open with a Vancouver caddies tournament and gave the latter even the nod for thrills and organization.

The Lachute, Que., professional let his hair down to explain why he and Toronto player Al Balding cut short a European trip to return.

Leonard, formerly of Vancouver's Marine Drive, arrived back Saturday and Balding the next day. Both will be firing Thursday in the $38,800 Open over the Royal Quebec Golf Club course here.

The pair opened in the Canada Cup, fading after a brilliant start. They finished well down in the Open and terminated commitments to play on a Commonwealth team against the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

In an interview, Leonard called the British Open "cold blooded" and the organizers, the Royal and Ancient Club, "antiquated."

He got more kick out of a caddies tournament in Vancouver as a kid—"and it was better organized."

"I was more than disappointed with the lack of facilities. At Hoylake for example, the golf club didn't serve any meals in the club for the brass, competitors or anybody... cold food or sandwiches could be bought."

"Of course, we had never been there before. Possibly those who have gone from this side year after year know about making arrangements for accommodations. We didn't know what we were going to run into."

Leonard said arrangements at Wentworth for the Canada Cup tournament were perfect.

Fogelin New Coach Of Stamps

CALGARY (CP)—Lee Fogelin, a standout defensive player for the last eight years with both Detroit and Chicago of the National Hockey League, has been signed as coach of Calgary Stampede of the Western Hockey League.

Fogelin succeeded Frank Currie, recently appointed manager of hockey for the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede board which sponsors the club. Currie was coach for three years.

The 30-year-old Fogelin will serve as playing coach. He was made available to Calgary by Chicago Black Hawks, with whom he played the last five years.

A native of Fort William, Ont., he played his last amateur hockey with the junior Galt Red Wings in Ontario and turned professional with Detroit Red Wings in the 1947-48 season. He was traded to Chicago in 1950-51.

All-Star Game Proves Reds Real Flag Threat

By JOE REICHLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1956 all-star game, won by the National League Tuesday 7-3, furnished proof it is no accident Cincinnati Reds are in first place in their circuit.

Furthermore, it is the consensus of Brooklyn manager Walter Alston, Cincinnati's own pilot Birdie Tebbets, a majority of the writers and the 28,843 spectators who attended the game that Red legs are going to be tougher than ever from now on.

Alston, who directed the winning National League all-stars, was generous in his praise of the six Cincinnati players in action, five in the starting lineup.

Noting that three of them—first baseman Ted Kluszewski, shortstop Roy McMillan and second baseman Johnny Temple—accounted for six of the National's 11 hits, scoring three runs and driving in two more, Alston said meaningfully:

"Their performance here should help them the rest of the season." Tebbets, who was the National's first base coach, grinned broadly when asked about his hirelings' showing.

He had a right to. Kluszewski had two doubles in two times at bat and drove in a run. Temple had two hits, one RBI and a stolen base and McMillan had two singles. In addition, Temple and McMillan executed the only double play of the game to snuff out the American's biggest threat.

"I'm proud of my guys," Birdie said. "A lot of wise-guys snickered when all those men of mine were voted to the all-stars. After what they did, we don't have to apologize to anybody. This was good experience for my players. It should give them the confidence they need for the second half of the race."

Except for third baseman Ken Boyer of St. Louis Cardinals, one of the stars of the game, only McMillan and Temple played throughout for the Nationals.

Alston employed 17 players as compared with 21 used by Casey Stengel of the Americans.

Tebbets emphasized the tremendous power the Nationals had in reserve, saying "we had more than 100 homers sitting on the bench."

As Alston said, it key hit in the game that produced the National's sixth victory in the last seven games and their 10th in the series of 23, was the homer by Willie Mays, a bench warmer until the fourth inning.

"In addition to Mays' hit," Alston said, "I'd say Boyer's fine play at third and the strong pitching throughout were the key factors in our victory. I'm not taking anything away from the other fellows. They all played splendidly."

Lose Second-Place Post; Face Timbermen Tonight

Pilseners 16, Shamrocks 8

Victoria Shamrocks, who have been in, sharing or fighting for second place in recent hectic Intercity Lacrosse League for weeks will be back trying to recoup their frittered-away second-place holdings tonight.

Shamrocks dropped into third place for the second time this season Tuesday night when they went down to a 16-8 loss at the hands of Jake Proctor's steam-rolling Vancouver Pilseners before 1,300 fans in Vancouver.

Tonight, on the occasion of Georgey Johnston Night, the Shamrocks will host first-place Nanaimo Timbermen with the Irish needing a victory over the league-leaders to get back in the second-place tie with Pils.

At half-time, a draw will be held for prizes in the Georgey Johnston Fund, held to help the popular goalie defray expenses accrued after he was hospitalized with a ruptured ulcer.

Miss Kathy McMillan, daughter of former Shamrock coach Red McMillan, will make the draw.

In a T.O.O. preliminary, Junior Shamrocks and Foul Bay will tangle in a Senior B League game.

BOX SCORE

Pils who were serving as a punching bag for just about every team in the league not so long ago, have now won seven games in a row, including three straight over Shamrocks and two in a row over Timbermen. Pils are only nine points behind Nanaimo.

Pilseners tore it wide open in the second half Tuesday night after goalie Johnston, seeing his first action since early in the season, turned aside the powerful Pilsener attack.

But early in the third quarter, Shamrocks picked up a rash of penalties from referee Earl McDonald and Pils scored seven goals, six of them on the odd-man play.

Don Hamilton took over in the fourth quarter but he was unable to stop the Pilseners.

Scoring-wise, Bill Barbour continued to fatten his scoring total at Shamrocks' expense, sniping five goals. Handy Kay Byford scored twice and picked up four assists.

Larry Booth, playing his first game of the season, and Pee-wee Bradshaw scored two goals each for Shamrocks, while coach Whitey Severson had a goal and four assists.

Rocks had one minor injury, Lew Landess being hit on the

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

There has been a bit of mumble about Victoria Shamrocks dropping Don Hamilton to use recuperated Geordy Johnston in goal last night. But, if you were running the team, what would you do?

Hamilton has performed superbly for the Irish since he took over after Geordy's momentous stomach ache. Don, at present, is the league-leading goal-tender among the regulars in the league.

But let's not lose sight of the fact that last year Geordy led the Shamrocks into the Mann Cup final and, in that final he received the Mike Kelly medal as the most valuable and outstanding player of the series. A guy with that background, you can't keep on the bench.

Ultimately, this thing will work itself out. If Geordy proves that he's still the Shamrocks' first-string goalie, he will be so honored. If his layoff has taken some of the gloss off his magic, he will have to give the job back to Don. We are sure that both goalies would want it that way.

At any rate, Geordy's return provides the Shamrocks with the best one-two goal-tending in the league, regardless of what Nanaimo people say about Fred Fulla and Alf Shuker.

Incidentally, Geordy's many, many friends will be happy to hear that his wife, Mary, is out of the hospital now and will attend tonight's game. Geordy and Mary have had enough tough luck for six people in the last few months but they remain cheerful and plan to start enjoying the summer weather they have been missing.

That loud, hollow sound you hear these days is Jake Proctor laughing up his sleeve. The Deacon has the right to a few guffaws, the way his club is peeling paint off everyone in sight. Pilseners may have stunk the place out in the first half of the season, but now, as the clubs are aligning themselves in playoff positions, Pilseners are smelling of roses. Hasn't this always been characteristic of the mainland teams?

A late entry in possibilities for the Maitland Trophy could well be Pils' Jack Byford, the man who is putting the bubbles in the Pilseners. Skinny to the point of emaciation, Byford may look like a little case when he shuffles slouching out on the floor but when that whistle goes, he is all deadly serious business.

DETROIT (AP)—Four bids for the franchise of the Detroit Tigers baseball club have been turned over to the president of the American League and the baseball commissioner. It was reported a $5,180,000 bid from Jack Kent Cooke of Toronto was included in the offers.

Chinese Students saw a few they found friendly enough, Tuesday night at Central Park, humbling last-place Arrows, 8-2. It's a tonic for Students meeting Arrows' so often. Beating them softens the regular defeats at the hands of league-leading Gorge Hotel, who bounced Walter Derris boys, 11-4, Monday night.

Tuesday night, Students did a little bouncing themselves, notably in the fifth inning, when they scored four runs off the slants of John Furnston, to start things off in rousing fashion.

PRICE IN FORM
Altogether, they solved Furnston for nine hits, including a triple and a double. Winning pitcher was Dave Price, who spun an adequate three-hitter over the distance.

Students' triple came off the bat of third baseman Bobby Lowe in the sixth inning. Bobby had himself another fine evening, picking up two singles to go with the triple in four times at bat.

Coach Derr helped things with a double and single in four trips.

For the punchless Arrows, Len Anderson did his best with a deep triple in the fourth inning that produced a run.

WHEN BALLS ARE HIT TO THE FIRST-BASEMAN OR SECOND-BASEMAN IN A DOUBLE-PLAY SITUATION, THE SHORTSTOP SHOULD TRY TO GET SET IN THE AREA INDICATED ON A DIRECT LINE FROM THE THROWER SO HE CAN MOVE FORWARD AT ANY ANGLE TO TAKE THE THROW AND THEN THROW ON TO FIRST BASE.

IF A SHORTSTOP FIELDS A GROUND BALL WITHIN 15 FEET OF SECOND BASE, HE SHOULD Toss IT UNDERHAND, QUICKLY AND ACCURATELY, SO THAT IT REACHES THE PIVOT MAN AT THE HEIGHT OF HIS CHEST.

Being in the right place at the right time usually makes the double play possible. The famous double-play combinations such as Marion and Schoendienst, Boudreau and Gordon, Crosetti and Lazzeri, and Carrasquel and Fox spent many hours in practicing their specialty and studying how to play certain batters.

In getting set for a double play the shortstop and second baseman move in toward second base and home plate from their normal fielding depth. How far they move depends on the speed of the runner at first base and of the batter. Only practice and experience will determine the proper distance.

If the ball is fielded by the shortstop or second baseman more than 15 feet from second base, he should throw the ball overhand to the pivot man. He should throw hard, but not too hard for the pivot man to handle, and he should be sure that it is a good throw, aimed at the chest. A poor throw can keep the pivot man from completing the play.

When the underhand toss is used, the toss is made with the throwing hand so that the pivot man will get a clear view of the ball. Always keep in mind that it is better to get one man out than to hurry the play in an effort to get two and miss both of them. Be sure of the first out before worrying about the second one.

Bullen Hurls No-Hit Victory

Sooke took a one-game lead in the Colwood and district juvenile boys' softball playoffs Monday as Glen Bullen pitched a no-hitter to down View Royal, 5-0.

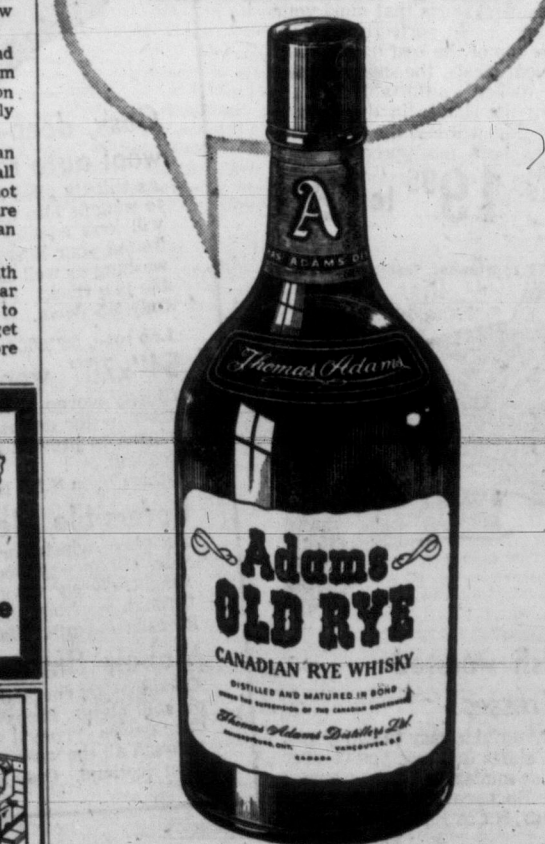

Eric Walker backed Bullen's no-hit pitching by clubbing a fifth-inning homer.

ONLY 300 SERVANTS

Last(?) of Maharajahs Down to Four Elephants

LONDON (AP)—The Maharajah of Jaipur said today he is down to his last four elephants and is turning one of his five remaining palaces into a hotel. It isn't that the 44-year-old maharajah is starving, or anything like that. But his income, once fabulous, now is $335,000 a year. Under the new order of things in India he is governor of Jaipur instead of absolute ruler.

With this kind of money, he told a reporter, he cannot afford to run half a dozen palaces. He has been forced already to cut his staff of 600 servants in half, and has given one palace to the Indian government for use as a guest house.

The maharajah, who once owned a string of 70 elephants used mainly for tiger hunting, said the old princely way of life is dying in India.

"Some of the maharajahs," he said, "are having to move out of their palaces altogether. We now have estate taxes just like the people in England, and our generation is probably the last to attempt to live in the old style."

Sloan Partnership Plan Urged for Forest Licences

The Powell River Company urged before the Sloan Royal Commission Tuesday that private and government timber be combined in forest management licences.

This was originally recommended in the 1945 report on forestry by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

John E. Liersch, vice-president in charge of forest operations for the Powell River Co., argued that the management plan became a source of controversy because the government did not adhere to the Chief Justice's recommendation.

Mr. Liersch said the two types of timber were covered by some licences but others involved only government timber and this gave rise to "give away" charges by former MLA Gordon Gibson.

He declared the "overwhelming evidence" before three successive royal commissions is that the government has never been able to provide sufficient funds to manage forests properly.

NOT ENOUGH MONEY

"That was the principal reason for trying to obtain help from private individuals and companies."

He urged that the government increase funds for the development and opening up of public working circles for small loggers and sawmills.

Mr. Liersch suggested that the government continue issuing forest management licences in remote areas where it is in the public interest to build a big plant, but only on a competitive basis.

He also recommended sale of forest lands for growing trees and quoted Dr. C. D. Orchard, deputy minister of lands and forests, in support.

Dr. Orchard has gone on record before the commission saying that in his opinion at least 50 per cent of forest land

With the completion of argument by the Powell River company, the commission adjourned until 11 a.m. Thursday. The company will be heard later in rebuttal of opposing arguments.

Accents From Around World Heard Here at Summer School

BY DINAH KEER

The Summer School of Education here is almost a "United Nations for teachers."

All "delegates" teach in B.C. schools, but they are belied by accents ranging from Yugoslavian to southern drawls, Scottish burrs, and clipped English.

The drawl belongs to James Johnson, a Negro teacher from Prince George, who, according to reports, has "taken the town by storm."

He left Denver, Colorado, with his family two years ago to teach in the northern centre. Now choral director in the high school, he leads two choirs—the student "Legend Singers" and an adult group, the "Cariboo Chorus." Both were heard recently on the CBC "Parade of Chorus."

Mr. Johnson graduated from the University of Denver with a Bachelor of Education degree and a master's in psychology. "Music is just a hobby of mine," he says. "It's sort of getting out of hand."

JUST FOOLING AROUND

He also broadcasts folk programs from the local radio station, singing and "just fooling around with a guitar."

One of his classmates is Dr. George Szekely, Yugoslavian, who will become a Canadian citizen in December.

Dr. Szekely arrived in Canada eight years ago, with two doctor's degrees and proficiency in almost every language but English. He had worked in this province as dog washer in a veterinary hospital, garbage collector, night worker in a hotel, and dairyman.

When he first hit B.C., Dr. Szekely studied the local want ads, and was delighted to see the ad "Wrestling: No experience necessary." Now a teacher at Nelson Junior High school he still groans at the memory. "I thought it meant welding," he says.

TO RAMFIELD

Mrs. Helen Royds is also a new Canadian, here from London, England. A veteran of 22 years teaching, she is looking forward to a position at Ramfield, B.C. "Do the children really come to school by canoe?" she asks. "That's quite different from London."

Chinese teacher Mrs. Alice Loy has journeyed from Ashcroft in the Cariboo to attend Summer School. The reports that "there's nothing wild up there now, not even the moose."

From South Africa and Scotland comes Mrs. Alicia Humphreys, now teaching elementary grades at Vernon, B.C. Her main interest is music and she is taking a refresher course at the Summer School.

TEACHERS OF ALL NATIONALITIES are taking courses at the Summer School of Education here. Among them, from left, are Mrs. Alice Loy, Chinese teacher in the Cariboo; Negro James Johnson,

Prince George; Miss Helen Royds, here from England; Yugoslavian Dr. George Szekely, now teaching at Nelson, and Scot, Mrs. Alicia Humphreys, teacher at Vernon. (Times photo.)

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

Please forgive an even more fumbling effort than usual today.

As I write this, by dawn's early light, my eyes are rimmed with red, my head nods, there is a faint buzzing inside my cranium.

In short, I am a wappened boy. The reason being, in this space yesterday I asked if any kindly constituent knew in which play Shakespeare used the word "wappened," and also what it meant.

The dictionary dismissed "wappened" as a word of doubtful meaning. But not the kindly constituents.

The kindly constituents took telephone in hand, and proceeded to tell me all.

The word in question was used but once by Shakespeare, they told me. This was in the tragedy Timon of Athens, Act IV, they explained. In the opening soliloquy of Scene 3, they added, when Timon enters from the cave (he would!), and expressing his feelings on the subject of gold, said (among a great many other things):

"... this is it.

"That makes the wappened widow wed again..."

And the kindly constituents also said the meaning was, undoubtedly, "worn-out."

Well, I am duly grateful to all the kindly constituents for their kindly information, and I will not argue with them. But it is only fair to state that no less a Shakespearean authority than W. J. Craig, then of Trinity College, Dublin, said in 1928 "wappened" is of doubtful meaning, perhaps over-worn, stale."

However, let us not get into an argument. Shakespearean words with doubtful meanings are a dime a dozen.

My trouble—and the reason I'm a wappened boy, by any definition—is that the telephone calls from the kindly constituents sent me to my one-volume Shakespeare, with its fine print. Naturally, having read one extract from Timon of Athens, I had to read the whole thing—being caught, as usual, by the flow and power of the great man's writing.

And, after Timon, I had to read a sonnet or two as a chaser. All very wonderful and heady stuff, but hard on the eyes.

In the future, I will fail to ask intelligent questions in this space, and stick to my usual linsey-woolsey.

Because I am fordone. But for real.

Floral Clock For Causeway Latest Plan

A large clock, embedded in the Causeway embankment, with numerals formed from growing flowers is the latest proposal for the Capital Improvement District Commission.

City parks committee made the recommendation today after hearing several letters on the subject, one from a resident who described a similar venture in Edinburgh, Scotland.

The committee was told a similar suggestion was made by the Chamber of Commerce last year, and costs for a clock with a 20-foot diameter face, including maintenance, was set at $21,100.

City parks administrator W. H. Warren gave an estimate of $14,500 for a clock with a 10-foot diameter face.

The parks committee, chaired by Ald. Robert Macmillan, felt the project would rightly be referred to the provincial government beautification committee.

City Police Club Pistol Contests At Thetis Lake

Pistol shots echoed over Thetis Lake as policemen milled about today but nobody made any arrests.

It was all in the name of sport as crack marksmen from all over the Pacific Northwest opened competition in the 37th annual pistol tournament of the Victoria City Police Revolver Club.

The meet, open to civilians and police, will end Thursday when team and individual aggregate prizes will be awarded at a dance at the Chez Marcel.

Most of the competitors will also be taking part in the two-day B.C. Rifle Association tourney opening Friday.

In the police shoot, teams are entered from Vancouver, Spokane, Tacoma, Bremerton, Seattle and the U.S. Army base at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Power Failure Hits Nearly All of Island

Half of Victoria and all of the remainder of Vancouver Island were without electric power today between 9.30 and 10 a.m., as a result of line trouble at the John Hart plant of the B.C. Power Commission at Campbell River.

A commission spokesman blamed construction work at the Campbell River plant, where lines from Ladore and Upper Campbell projects are being connected with the island system at John Hart.

"While the work was going on all the island load was being carried on one circuit instead of the usual two," he said. "For some reason the circuit was tripped, and it took 15 minutes to build back the load. There was no damage."

Nanaimo, the Alberni, Duncan, Ladysmith, Parksville and Qualicum were without power. Only the Elk Falls Company mill at Duncan Bay was still operating.

Here in Victoria the B.C. Electric was able to supply Bamber, parts of Saanich, Sooke, and priority city circuits from its Jordan River plant.

Shores were able to meet the loss of service with automatic equipment.

The T. Eaton Co. store has its own diesel generating unit set to start operating immediately when normal power sources fail.

"Fifteen seconds after the power loss we had light in the store," a company official said. Hudson's Bay Company has standby equipment consisting of battery-powered floodlights that switch on automatically when the power fails.

"We have about 20 of them for the darker corners. Most of the store is quite bright even without lights," said C. N. Chubb, manager.

Manpower Shortage Growing in B.C.

Rapidly Expanding Boom May Create Big Problem

A shortage of skilled workers throughout British Columbia was reported today by Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd.

Local CD Men To Share in Big Exercise

About 60 local civil defence officials will participate in a full-scale theoretical exercise, July 21 to 23 which will be carried out across Canada and the United States.

It will be one of the largest ever carried out and several officials, including Greater Victoria CD co-ordinator Roger Peachey, have attended special pre-exercise planning sessions in Amherst, Ontario.

The local program will see communications and control centres tested in attempts to co-operate with other centres across the country. Most problems will come as a surprise to those taking part, but all decisions will be recorded on paper; there will be no physical drill.

The exercise begins at 8 a.m. on the Friday and three shifts will man the control and communications centres until Sunday noon.

At the same time a spokesman for the Unemployment Insurance Commission said employment is now at its highest for seven or eight years. Engineers and draughtsmen seemed to be the most urgently needed.

In his report on current economic conditions, Mr. Chetwynd said all reports indicate very "active employment" throughout the province with forestry operations in full swing after production difficulties in the first part of the year, and a rapid increase in timber scale and sawmill activity in the Prince George district.

Mining generally is more active than it has been for a number of years.

HEAVY TRADE

Retail businesses are enjoying heavy trade with total sales for the first four months higher by 9.5 per cent than during the corresponding period in 1955. Credit buying still forms a large proportion of sales.

Department stores have maintained a large volume of business with sales higher by 9.3 per cent and 13.6 per cent in April and May respectively over last year.

Indications are that June sales have continued this increase despite a tendency to slightly higher prices.

All phases of manufacturing show increased business volume with shortages for certain types of skilled labor becoming more apparent. This is also true of the construction industry.

"Agriculture is still handicapped by effects of the severe winter, labor shortages and uncertain crop prospects," Mr. Chetwynd said.

He added that freight and passenger facilities on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway extension linking Vancouver with the interior of the province should be "fully available" by the first week in September.

The Railway showed a 26.1 per cent increase in total traffic from Jan. 1 to June 14 over the same period last year.

2 Collection Centres for 'Swim Fund'

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash today said he will set up a "Bill Muir Swim Fund" in a city bank following numerous calls from citizens eager to aid the municipal surveyor in his next attempt on the strait.

Reeve Ash hoped to complete arrangements for the trust fund today.

Several donations have already been received.

"Bill deserves every encouragement," said Mr. Ash of the distance swimmer, who Sunday battled tide and winds to a point about one mile off the United States shore.

Muir, who has spent all his money on his eight swim bids on Juan de Fuca, estimates it would cost $1,200 to train and schedule another try.

Contributions to the fund may be left at the Saanich municipal hall or at Mr. Ash's shoe store, 1229 Government, whichever is convenient.

Following Muir's valiant swim, Canada's top mermaid, Marilyn Bell, due here next week for her first try on the strait, wired Muir "congratulations on your wonderful try."

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

MONTREAL—Chalk up Tuesday as another historic day in Ottawa. A senator sat in the House of Commons. A group of some 400 Canadian women was admitted to the floor of the House to be welcomed by the government, and, as the House came to order for an evening session, male voices rose in melodious song.

Add to these protocol shattering events the fact that I sat at the desk of W. G. Weir, Liberal whip, and assistant to the prime minister and you have the ingredients for a story that simply couldn't have happened and yet it did.

In the prime minister's seat, directly in front of me, sat Mrs. Allie Ahern of Halifax. To her left, in the seat of the minister of fisheries, Hon. Jimmie Sinclair, was Mrs. Margaret Campbell, North Vancouver. On her left, at the desk of Hon. J. J. McCann, minister of revenue, was Senator Muriel Fergusson, New Brunswick. Around us, on the floor of the House, were women from every part of Canada, seated where possible, at desks of members of their own constituencies. Others were in the galleries.

Ministers and the members formed a slightly dazed but smiling background as they stood in the curtained arches leading to the anteroom.

All this happened when more than 900 members of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, now in triennial session in Montreal, descended by special train on Ottawa. Following a two-hour drive and high tea served at the colorful Ottawa Country Club, embassies in the capital city of Canada entertained their own nationals while the Canadians, more than 400 strong, were taken to the House of Parliament.

A secret until we were actually in the vaulted corridors was the fact that for the first time in history the Canadian government planned to welcome a convention group in this way from the floor of the House.

A SPECIAL WELCOME

In our honor the colorful flags of the United Nations fluttered from tall standards at the front of the buildings; a special detachment of red-coated Mounties stood at attention; and at the top of the stone steps of the main entrance, members of parliament waited to greet us and escort us to the floor of the House. As we passed the golden bar, Mrs. Ann Shipley, only Liberal woman member, met us.

First person I saw as I stepped from my bus at the entrance steps was Dr. F. T. Fairley, member for Victoria. I sat at his desk among the government benches for a short time before moving up to the minister's seat. Victorians, Mrs. Marguerite Laughlin, Mrs. Claire Lord and Miss Ella Brett, sat at opposition desks. Mrs. Ruby Masters, Miss Lily Henderson and Miss Minnie Beveridge were in the galleries.

We were even allowed to take pictures and cameras flashed continuously until a deep male voice called, "order! order!"

As silence descended in the House, Hon. Rene Beaudoin, came through a small door at the right of the speaker's chair, to welcome us.

Only 24 hours before, an announcement was made by the minister that Beaudoin would remain as speaker of the House and not resign as announced. Now, debonair and handsome, he was officially welcoming us to Ottawa.

After formalities were concluded, Mr. Speaker accorded us the privilege of asking him questions. As business and professional women we queried him on the equal pay bill and on phases of the ratification by Canada of the convention on political rights for women. We also asked when and if a woman would be appointed to the Civil Service Commission; questions that were skillfully parried and turned into a delightful treatise on the rules of procedure in the House that concluded when Mr. Speaker said with a charming and courteous smile, "You see how I can get myself off the hook."

MEET SPEAKER OF HOUSE

Leaving the House of Commons we were taken on a tour of the historic buildings and then to the railways committee room for a sherry party, where Rene Beaudoin shook hands and spoke to each one of us. Here the ministers and members assisted as hosts.

Another surprise came when the prime minister joined us for an informal talk. Pale and a little drawn from the strain of travel and work of government he was nevertheless relaxed and smiling. With his usual charm and easy flow of words he held us spellbound for 10 minutes concluding with "you are a well respected group of women, your deliberations are watched with keen interest and your findings seriously and thoughtfully considered."

Crowded in the huge committee room, the more than 500 women, many leaders in business and professionals across Canada, clapped and cheered enthusiastically.

In conversation with a small group surrounding him, Beaudoin capped the prime minister's remarks with "We realize that as a group you know what you want in the way of comprehensive legislation and also that you know how to go about getting it."

The evening session of the House commenced at 8 p.m. Our train for Montreal left Union Station at 8:45 p.m. on the dot. Yet many crowded the galleries for a quick look at the proceedings. Just before the House convened ministers and members on both sides of the House, looked up at the galleries and sang in unison "Good Night Ladies."

Truly it was an historic day in Ottawa.

Canadian Debs Learn How To Curtsy to the Queen

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Forty-two Canadian girls took tea Tuesday with a diplomat's wife and learned the rights and wrongs about curtsying to the Queen.

"Try to relax and don't be too stiff," was the advice given by Mrs. Jetty Robertson, Dutch-born wife of Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner in London.

Under her trained eye, the Canadian debutantes practiced curtsying and listened to lectures on court protocol, all designed as a prelude to Thursday's presentation party. On the big day, the girls will curtsy to the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh in the ballroom at Buckingham Palace, and then join in a jam-packed garden party on the palace lawn.

TIPS FROM BRIGADIERS

Two British brigadiers joined the Mayfair tea party to supplement Mrs. Robertson's tips. The brigadiers made these points:

Keep your hands at your sides. Remove both gloves, or keep them both on. It looks sloppy to be caught with one on, one off.

Don't stoop too low when curtsying. You might wobble, panic and fall, the ultimate nightmare.

MUSTN'T LOOK BLASE

Faith Widener of Vancouver said the main thing is not to look too blasé back in Canada because "people will think we've gone snobbish."

Some of the girls, determined to cut a keen curtsy, have been taking private lessons from Madame Vacani, who taught Prince Charles and Princess Anne how to walk gracefully and how to dance.

Men Prefer Less Clever Women?

MONTREAL (CP) — Brains may help build a feminine career, but men still prefer "less clever" women, a Canadian sociologist told the International Federation of Women Monday night.

Dr. Aileen Ross, a professor of sociology at McGill University, told a panel discussing "the woman executive" it was evident many women went to university for men, rather than for learning.

And because men preferred less clever women, women in turn had to show they weren't too clever.

HIGHEST GOAL

With marriage held as a woman's highest goal and with a choice of marriage partners, women spent the years they should be preparing for careers at the "more arduous task of getting a man," Miss Ross said.

Dr. Ross was one of a four-panel speakers addressing the IFPW's 17th triennial meeting which began here Saturday and ends Thursday.

More than 1,000 women, including some 950 congress delegates and observers, attended the panel discussion, with Senator Muriel McQueen Fergusson of Fredericton, N.B., as moderator.

Besides Dr. Ross, the panel included Elisabeth Feller of Zurich, Switzerland, president of the Swiss federation, Lisa Sergio, of Woodstock, Vermont, editor of the IFPW publication, and Brita Elmen of Goteborg, Sweden, president of the Swedish federation.

NOT TOO POPULAR

Senator Fergusson, summing up the two-hour discussion, concluded that the idea of women executives was not too popular but that reluctance to accept them was diminishing, and that personality was an important factor in getting and successfully keeping a top job.

Dr. Ross summed up her own remarks by emphasizing that the traditionally instilled behavior patterns for women, the pre-conceived ideas of what a woman should like and the lateness with which women started thinking about public life were career obstacles.

The changing role of women is a challenge to the adaptability of human nature, she said, and women must develop an "inner security" and know what they want and should do.

Mount Pictures Easily In Folder-Card Case

By PENNY SAVER

While I was cleaning out my dresser last evening, I discovered that there were clippings, membership cards, and innumerable snapshots that I wanted to save, but I had nowhere to put them. Of course, they were tossed into this drawer to be muddled over "later." Well, the "later" finally arrived after almost a year of collecting. The thought of clipping, pasting and mounting in scrapbooks seemed like a rather time-consuming and tedious task, so I decided to buy one of the multi-use view-flip cases I saw recently. In a black leather case are card or picture files of clear plastic, overlapping each other slightly so that many fit on each inside cover. Mount snapshots, with respective negatives and cards, and they are clearly visible on either side of the case. Twenty double-side plastic folders will keep many pictures handy and neat.

Now I've mementos and pictures that can be shown easily with just a flip of a card. This case is $2.75, and would make a good gift for someone you know.

Place mats for the small fry are new arrivals in town. Nursery rhymes and birthday motifs in gay, bright colors to appeal to the youngsters are scattered across the scalloped-edge mats of strong paper. For 39 cents, you buy a package of 12.

Also for the children are the new, and very popular match-box toys. Authentic models of English vehicles are no more than an inch to an inch-and-a-half long and fit into individual drawer boxes similar to large matchboxes. Trucks, sports cars, fire engines, tractors, buses, ambulances, flat deck trucks, cement mixers, milk wagons, steam rollers and sanders are some of the vehicles available. Movable parts, bright paint jobs and detailed pieces make these toys real treats. The price is right—29 cents each. There's a whole series, so birthdays, and all occasions can be used as excuses for adding to some little boy's collection of cars.

The ancestral recipes of Shen Mei Lon, are compiled and are adapted especially for our kitchens. A scroll of favorite Chinese dishes, this collection will help you out whenever you want to serve a really special dish to guests. The book is coil-

A gazette of charming dish specialties called "Wick and Lick" is also $1.95, and comes in the same type of binding. It's illustrated so you can see how your endeavor should look when finished. Interested? Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where I found the various items mentioned here in the shopping guide.

Teachers of Indian Children Honored at Informal Reception

The Indian Arts and Welfare Society of B.C. held its annual informal reception and social evening Tuesday at the Victoria Art Gallery, Moss street, to honor teachers in Indian schools and those who teach native children in public school classes and who are now attending sessions of the Summer School of Education. Speaker was C. G. Brown, chairman of the Dominion Committee on Indian Education.

The three Indian hospitals, Miller Bay, Coqualeetza and Nanaimo, sent representatives, and Miss Ellen Hart, chairman of the Art Trophy committee, presented three trophies to these delegates. Trophies will be awarded annually to the patient in each hospital for outstanding art work of pure native design.

Members of the society included J. V. Boys, superintendent of the Cowichan Agency;

Reg. Kelly, Department of Indian Affairs, Ottawa, and Mrs. Kelly; Mrs. Hattie Ferguson, president of the Coqualeetza Fellowship, Vancouver; Mrs. Ernest Evans, past president of the Dominion PTA. Special guests were Robert Wallace, director of the Summer School of Education, and Mrs. Wallace; Mr. and Mrs. Mungo Martin and family; Mr. Tony Emery, acting curator of the Art Gallery; and Mrs. Emery; Miss Doris Stocken and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Loudon. Colin Graham arranged a special exhibit of Eskimo art. Mrs. Mungo Martin received a trophy, an Indian copper, for the weaving of a rare Chilkat blanket.

Refreshments were conveyed by Mrs. G. Howland and Contessa de la Feld and Mrs. Robert Wallace. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Ian Tullis and Miss Ethel Bruce.

Teacher guests were Miss Reta Kristianson, Ahousat; Miss D. M. Lucas, Mrs. E. Hott, Dr. R. N. Simpson, Nanaimo Indian Hospital; Mrs. A. E. Mortimer, Prince Rupert; Mrs. K. Engstad, Burns Lake; Miss H. C. McDonald, Saskat; Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Gayner, Westholme; Mrs. S. M. Wilkinson, Medicine Hat; Mr. and Mrs. J. Cuthbertson, Lytton; Miss Kathrine Esan, New Hazelton; Mr. Noel Martin, Yukon; Miss K. Ewart, Hazelton; Mrs. A. G. Morris, Burns Lake; Miss Lenore Perret, Fort Nelson; Mrs. G. Hebert, Mrs. E. Wedding Ceremony in Kelowna Of Interest To Many Victorians

A recent Kelowna wedding of interest here was solemnized in the Immaculate Conception Church by Monsignor W. B. MacKenzie, when Miss Marie Magdalene Schleppe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Schleppe, 759 Sutherland Avenue, Kelowna, became the bride of Robert Newman Whittemore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whittemore, 1183 Reynolds Road, Victoria.

Frank Clarke, of Victoria, was soloist, and sang "Ave Maria" during the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a white strapless gown of nylon chiffon over taffeta with a bouffant skirt posed over hoops, a peplum at the waist, and a tiny lace jacket with long lily-point sleeves. Her fingertip veil mistled from a coronet trimmed with mother of pearl sequins and rhinestones. Her bouquet was of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. L. I. Campbell, matron of honor; Mrs. F. Jacklyn, and Mrs. A. McLeary, bridesmaids, wore turquoise and yellow, the spinach.

respectively, in waltz-length, styled gowns with overskirts of white nylon organdy. Their colonial bouquets of daisies were en tone with their gowns. The flower girl, Audrey Campbell, godchild of the bride, wore a pink patterned organdy dress with a floral bandeau of daisies. Her colonial bouquet was of white daisies.

The best man was Andrew McLeary, and ushers were Tom Stephens and Alfred Schleppe.

A reception banquet was held in the lounge of the Aquatic Club, where Monsignor MacKenzie proposed the toast to the bride.

Following a honeymoon trip down the Oregon coast, the newly weds have made their home at 77 Moss Street, in Victoria.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It's Mind Over Matter in Controlling Your Figure

It's all a question of mind over matter. If you make up your mind there won't be anything the matter with your figure!

Many women feel that they do not need special exercises since they are active physically because of their "housework." However, once you try these exercises you will find that you have not used your muscles in just the same way while going about your duties.

Even women who are the correct weight sometimes have measurements which are out of proportion. Exercise is the only answer to these problems. Large hips often spoil an otherwise attractive figure. Let's bring the large muscles into play with the following exercise. This is slimming to the hips, abdomen and waist.

Stand with your left side to the wall and place your left hand on the wall. Swing your right leg forward, reaching as far forward as possible. As you swing the right leg forward, swing the right arm backward. Now swing the leg backward and the arm forward and up. Keep your trunk erect, your knees stiff, and reach as far in each direction as you can with both your leg and your arm. Continue for a while. Then turn your right side to the wall and do the same thing with your left leg and arm.

It is easier to "get going" on this one if you assume the position of the leg forward and the arm back—think what you are going to do next and then go ahead. Be sure to reach up with your arm so that you feel the pull at the waistline.

The following exercise is splendid for the hips, thighs and abdomen. Take the same position with the left side toward the wall and the left hand on the wall. Now lift the right leg forward with a stiff knee. Move it sideward and then back.

Bring it down to place. In other words, make large circles with your right leg. After a while turn the right side to the wall and do the same thing with your left leg. Make the circles as large as possible.

If you would like to have my tested exercises for hip slimming, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Sisters and Grooms Married In Double Wedding Ceremony

Miss Nancy Jean Robertson and her groom, Malcolm Victor Connors, and Miss Violet Marjorie Robertson, and her groom, Amos Victor Happy, were wed recently in a double wedding solemnized in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Dr. J. L. W. McLean performed the ceremony for the two couples. The brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson, 1266 Basil Avenue, and their grooms are sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. Connors, 510 Catherine street, and Mrs. M. Happy of Saskatoon, and the late Mr. Happy.

White heather tied with tartan ribbons marked guest pews, and tall white standards of white gladioli and Esther Reed daisies marked the altar. C. C. Warren was organist, and during the signing of the register Miss Ann Draper sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

Bride, Miss Nancy Robertson, was gown in a floor-length gown of lace over satin in princess style with a strapless, scalloped bodice with matching jacket with lily point sleeves. A tulle cap of braided nylon and tulle with mother of pearl sequin embroidery held her fingertip veil of illusion net which was appliqued with broadened rosettes. She wore the groom's gift, pearl earrings.

Marion of honor was Mrs. R. J. Patterson, and bridesmaid, Miss Janet Vander Halghe, gown in blue. Best man for Mr. Connors was Charles A. Connors, and usher was George Connors.

Miss Violet Robertson was gown in a floor-length gown of lace over satin in princess style with a strapless, scalloped bodice with matching jacket with lily point sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held by a dainty bandeau of pleated tulle.

Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift of the groom.

She was attended by matron of honor, Mrs. L. Starling, and bridesmaid, Miss Beverley Jones, who were gown in yellow. Best man for Mr. Happy was Leslie Starling, and usher, Morris Happy.

Both brides carried cascade bouquets of red roses and white stephanotis.

Bridal attendants' gowns were of embossed organza in ballerina-length with strapless bodices topped with matching jackets. Their bouquets were cascades of yellow and white carnations, and blue and white tinted carnations. All wore matching bandeaus of complementary carnations.

The brides were given in marriage by their father.

A reception party was held in the Golden Slipper, where red roses, carnations and sweet peas decorated the brides' tables. A three-tier wedding cake trimmed with tulle and topped with red rosebuds centered the main table. James R. Marrs proposed the toast to the brides' happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Connors left for a honeymoon trip through the United States to Portland and then on to Seaside and Cannon Beach. Mrs. Connors' going-away outfit was a pale blue silk sheath with floral pattern topped with a matching pale blue duster coat lined with the silk print. She wore a blue picture hat and chose white accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Connors are now living in the Sharlston Apartments.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When there's a curious 18 or 24-month baby in the house, it's good to consider safety when buying a washing machine. A top-loader or one with an extra-stiff front handle is a great help.

If baby has a sitter who comes pretty regularly, you may be an employer who should withhold and contribute toward her social security. The law has been changed recently. Check carefully or you may break the law unwittingly.

MONEY TAKEN FOR BURIALS, BODIES HIDDEN

GLASGOW (Reuters)—Hospital caretaker Colin MacRae was charged in court here Tuesday with embezzlement following the discovery of bodies of 35 stillborn babies in tea chests here last month.

The bodies were found in the morgue of Glasgow's Royal Maternity Hospital.

It was alleged that MacRae embezzled some £60 from parents of 57 babies which died or were stillborn at the hospital this year. The money was said to have been paid for burial charges.

MacRae was released on bail after his brief court appearance.

Water Tunnel May Be Needed Says Scurrah

An underground waterway from Spoke Lake to the city's watershed at Japan Gulch at an estimated construction cost of $6,000,000 will probably be a necessity by 1959, Mayor Percy Scurrah said Tuesday.

He revived the much-discussed Greater Victoria Water District tunnel project while speaking to Victoria Kiwanis Club.

His estimate of costs was a $2,000,000 increase over any previous estimates. Water board officials had anticipated the project would be a necessity in the period 1960 to 1965, actual date depending on the deterioration rate of present flow lines and upon the growth of this area.

Mayor Scurrah said the tunnel would provide water supply for a population of 250,000 persons. He said the GVVWD now supplies 30,000,000 gallons of water a day, which will be insufficient in view of building 10,000 new homes he estimated for this area shortly.

He saw some relief in the moving of Sidney Roofing and Paper Company from the city. The firm uses 2,000,000 gallons a day—equal to 3,500 homes, the mayor said. He felt the move of the firm to Vancouver would give respite for "... two or three years."

Two Newcomers

On No. 1 Esk Squad

EDMONTON (CP)—Only two newcomers are included in the No. 1 lineup that coach Frank Ivy has been running through hand-off drills in the training camp of the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos.

In twice-a-day workouts by the club, centre Johnny Tatum has replaced Kurt Burris at centre in the first string and Maryland end Bill Walker has taken over the spot occupied last year by Bob Heydenfeldt, now in the United States Air Force.

Cancer Increase Blamed On Radioactivity Boost

LONDON (Reuters)—One of Britain's leading cancer experts has linked the increase of cancer with rising world radioactivity levels.

Surgeon H. J. Atkins told a conference on the disease Tuesday that with increased use of fissionable materials and atomic explosions, safeguard and checks against radiation "assume the highest importance."

The conference of the British Empire Cancer Campaign reported that though there was no positive evidence natural radioactivity influenced either the cancer rate or the incidence of malformed babies, "such an influence cannot be ruled out."

The report, which also included information on tobacco smoking and air pollution, said "the population at large is exposed to low levels of radiation arising from the natural radioactivity of the earth and air, from building materials and, to a lesser extent, from the controlled use of radiations and radioactive isotopes."

About a cure for cancer, Atkins said: "The truth is that we do not know from what direction light might be shed. The final answer may not come from some marble palace of research but possibly from some bearded genius in a garret."

The report also dealt with research into the connection between cigaret smoking and lung

RIVERA IN EXHIBIT

Two pretty señoritas and a CPA stewardess pose with one of Mexican paintings on exhibition this week from 2 to 10 p.m. at the Crystal Garden. The canvas, "Landscape at Night," is by celebrated artist Diego Rivera. Posing with it, left to right, are Alicia Echeverria, Luz Maria Bolanos Cacho and attractive stewardess. Showing here is sponsored by the Times and CPA.

797 of 1,123 Workers Voted in Strike Poll

VANCOUVER (CP)—E. L. Harrison, chairman of the Fisheries Association labor committee, claimed here Tuesday that workers favoring a fishing industry strike were only 56 1/2 per cent of eligible voters.

Mr. Harrison said 1,123 fresh fish and cold storage workers were eligible for the government-supervised strike vote of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union. The union announced the workers voted 635 to 162 in favor of the strike, with 13 spoiled ballots.

Mr. Harrison said the association was "quite prepared to do its part in resolving the differences" before the union's July 14 strike deadline.

"We most certainly agree that a strike at this time would be very serious for the industry, for employees and operators," he said.

"We have already offered wages and conditions above those recommended by the conciliation board."

The union is demanding wage increases of 20 cents an hour before Saturday. In addition, agent, benzpyrene, and allied substances in the air. The study was made during a two-year period among non-smokers and pipe and cigaret smokers in a rural, mixed and urban areas.

It said that the rural death rate from lung cancer increased in proportion with the maximum number of cigarettes smoked habitually each week. The urban rates exceeded the rural rate by about the same amount in each smoking category.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dale Seiberg, age 10, of Peoria, Ill., for his question:

Are May Apples Good to Eat?

Summer is the time to wander through the woods and open country. The green leaves are crowding a lifetime of work into a few short months. Naked fledglings, furry cubs, pups and toddlers all sorts are getting their schooling. Busy insects are making the best of warm days. The summery earth is full of wondrous things to see, to hear, to smell—and maybe to touch and to taste.

But not all these fascinating things are friendly to human beings. Certain snakes bite with poisoned fangs. Be sure to memorize any that may haunt your neighborhood. Bees sting and so do hornets. Mosquitoes stab with poisoned beaks. So learn all you can about how to avoid trouble and to handle what you cannot avoid. Watch out and enjoy the rest.

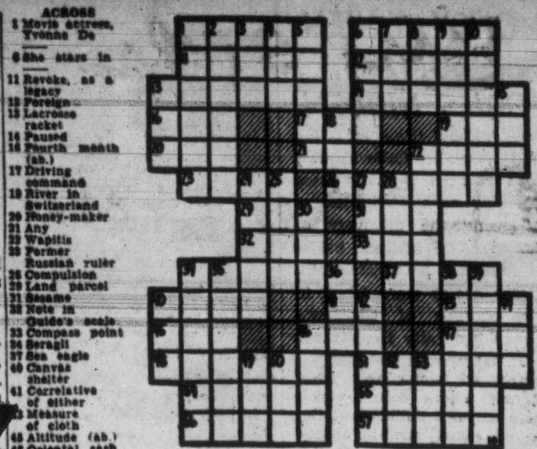

In the main, the plant kingdom is friendly. But there are exceptions. Mushrooms are good to eat. But some of their cousins are poisonous. It takes an expert to tell which fungus plant is safe for us to eat. We have other foes in the brambles that claw and the nettles that sting. And we all know what poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac can do to us.

However, plants can't chase after us. True, certain pollens drift in the air and make some people sneeze. But most plants must wait until we touch them before they can harm us. You've scrambled through the brambles, settled in the nettles or stroked the poison oak before you felt them. With sharp eyes, proper information and good sense you can avoid such lurking foes.

Andy sends a Hammond Ambassador World Atlas to John Straw, age 12, of Tucson, Arizona, for his question:

What makes the sun shine? The sun is a blazing furnace. It burns day and night, pouring forth its heat and light in all directions. It has been burning for billions of years and will burn away for billions more. You would think that even a great big star like the sun would gradually burn up its fuel. True, if the sun were burning coal it could burn for only 5,000 years.

But the sun is not burning coal. It is not even a wood, coal or oil type furnace. It is a nuclear furnace. Its energy my side of the story

A continuing series
BY THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

From Dieppe to Cannes, down the length of France, the distance is about 650 miles—too far to undertake it safely in a straight run. Perry suggested stopping at Rouen, about two hours beyond Dieppe. A few hours rest, an early start, and with luck we would be in Cannes by midnight of the second day.

It was about two o'clock in the morning when we arrived at the Hotel de la Poste. The lobby was deserted. The sleepy clerk at the reception desk did not even so much as glance at me as Perry asked for two rooms and registered in the name of "Mr. and Mrs. Harris."

I was too tired to undress; I threw myself on the bed, intending to rest a moment. The next thing I knew, Perry was knocking on the door. "Wake up, Wallis. Wake up. I'm most frightfully sorry; I've overslept," he called.

I longed for a bath and to change my clothes, but dared not delay. We had intended to be off by the first light, before the hotel had bestirred itself, but now it was daylight. Perry had tea and rolls sent to my room.

I had a sip of one and a half of the other. Then, behind Perry's protecting back I slipped downstairs.

I Am Recognized
As I entered the lobby, the few people there seemed to recognize me. I moved towards the door with Evans walking ahead. Perhaps our attempts to be unobtrusive gave us away. Perhaps it was the Buick at the door. In any event, there was a crowd around the car.

An unfortunate contretemps arose. A young girl—she was blonde and laughing—stood in front of the car door. Evans asked her to move aside. The girl said something, half-mockingly, in French and pointed a camera at me. Evans' arm flashed out and the camera flew from the girl's hands. The girl screamed.

Evans and Perry pushed me into the car and jumped in as Ladbroke pulled away from the curb. "Evans," I cried, "why did you do that?"

"I am under the King's orders," he replied. "How could I be sure that the girl did not have a bottle of vitriol in her camera?"

It was, I am sure, the only mistake that this competent detective ever made in his long career, but there was no time to go back for an apology.

The one thing on my mind now was to find a place where I might stop and telephone David.

Plans Go Askew
I wanted above all to improve him not to be carried away by his emotions, to do nothing impulsively, to seek advice. But that incident in front of the Hotel de la Poste, and the realization that all the journalists in France must be mobilizing along our route, had thrown our plans askew.

We dared not take the direct way to Cannes. Once beyond the outskirts of Rouen, Ladbroke left the main road and started off on a roundabout course to the south, hoping to shake off pursuit.

Perry had a map spread out on his lap from which he called out directions to Ladbroke. The new route took us, about lunch time, to Evreux, in Normandy, a charming town where I had stopped for the night some years before.

I remembered there the Hotel de la Poste, with a large courtyard where the car would not be visible from the main road. It would be a good place from which to make my call to David.

Perry and I entered the inn together, leaving Ladbroke and Evans to watch the entrance. The dining room was already quite full. Nobody looked up. The telephone was in a booth near the bar.

Before I left the Fort, David and I had worked out a simple code in which he was identified as "Mr. James." While Perry was putting the call through to "Mr. James" at the Fort, I sat at a table and jotted down on a piece of paper what I wished to say. The first sentence was: "On no account is Mr. James to step down." There were other points: "You must get advice. You must bring in your old friends. See Duff Cooper. Talk to Lord Derby. Talk to the Aga Khan." Do nothing rash.

"I included the name of this sagacious and experienced religious leader at Perry Brownlow's suggestion. The Aga had been a close and admired friend of George V, who often consulted him privately on political matters.

Papers Find Out
Perry was beckoning from the booth. "The King's coming on," he whispered. "The connection is abominable. You'll have to shout."

David's voice came to me as from another planet, asking why we were in Evreux. I answered that we were trying to shake off the Press; he couldn't hear me and seemed to be trying to give me some sort of warning. (What he tried to tell me, I learned afterwards, was that the Press, having discovered my presence in France, had correctly guessed my destination as Cannes and was already dashing towards the Rogers' villa.)

I begged David to listen to me carefully. I went over and over my scribbled list of points hoping by sheer repetition to make myself heard and understood.

At the end I was screaming, and so too were Perry and Evans outside the booth in an anxious effort to drown out what I was saying and to keep it from being understood by the few Frenchmen in the bar.

I could only hear David asking repeatedly what Perry and I were doing in Evreux.

There comes in moments of despair an agonized feeling that one's voice is fated never to be heard, that a malignant power is bent upon defeating the most desperate efforts to make oneself understood. I had that feeling at Evreux. It was with a sense of utter hopelessness that I hung up.

We took to the road again, intending to make another attempt to telephone at the next town. We had gone perhaps five miles when I suddenly remembered the notes I had scribbled in the inn at Evreux.

I reached into my coat pocket. They were not there. I searched through my handbag. "Lost something?" Perry asked.

languidly. "The notes," I said. "The notes for my talk with the King—I must have left them in the booth."

For once Perry's savoir-faire deserted him. "It would be ungalant of me to say how like a woman," he said, "but, Wallis, now we are in a hole. If we go back you're almost certain to be recognized this time. Yet if we leave those notes—if they should be found and given to the press—well, I don't have to tell you how Fleet Street will deal with them."

In the end we decided not to go back after the notes. The chances were that if they were noticed the paper would probably be tossed aside as meaningless jottings, and even if they were to be picked up by a reporter, he would be unable to make sense of it, or be sure that it was my handwriting.

The episode of the lost notes, as David has recorded in his book, had an interesting aftermath.

They were not lost. The hotelier found them after I left and, being a chivalrous man, kept them to himself.

Some years later the British author Sir Harold Nicolson happened to stop at the same hotel.

Knowing him to be a distinguished man of letters, the hotelier showed him the scrap of paper which had been carefully put away in an envelope, and insisted that he take it. Sir Harold generously returned the paper to me.

"THIS IS FINE NEWS"

Ike's Decision Makes Malik Happy
LONDON (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik is an "Ike for president" booster. "Have you heard the news?" asked Russia's envoy to Britain as he swept into a party Tuesday night given by Harry Hothel, British foreign office official. Heads turned his way, awaiting some new pronouncement from the Kremlin.

"Senator Knowland," said Malik, "has just announced that Ike is going to be a candidate. This is fine news."

Another guest laughingly commented it was strange hearing the Soviet ambassador bearing news about the American presidency.

"I'm for Eisenhower," said Malik. "The people of Europe know him. They like him and trust him. We can do business with President Eisenhower."

Grace, Dignity Ordered For Badges on RCN Ships

OTTAWA (CP) — The heraldic or no official control over the kind of badge a ship might wear.

"In some of his majesty's ships there was much head-scratching and probably a little recourse to inspirational tonics when badges were to be designed," it adds.

When choice of ships' badges began to decline into ribaldry, the British admiralty put its foot down and decided to put the matter on an official basis.

RIBALDRY REMAINED

Ribaldry wasn't entirely eliminated in the Canadian navy during the Second World War, though.

The Crownsnest recalls that one of its little corvette displayed a badge that was the pride of her ship's company but rather startling for women visitors. On the corvette's gun shield was drawn a large playing card, the queen of hearts, a fair young thing in short-skirts falling stern first into a puddle of water. The ship's name? Wetaskiwin.

The destroyer St. Laurent, known to sailors as the Sally Rand, had a picture of that lovely in working rig knocking down German and Japanese dive bombers with her fan.

INOFFENSIVE BADGES

In 1945, when plans were being made for the post-war Canadian fleet, the naval staff decided that those ships remaining in service should carry badges reasonable enough to display in foreign waters and inoffensive on a Christmas card to the local bishop.

Oscar Winner Arrested On Dope Charge

Bobby Driscoll Held by Police

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bobby Driscoll, 19, awarded a special Oscar as the best child actor of 1949, was arrested Tuesday night on suspicion of violating the state narcotics law.

The actor was taken into custody after police said they recovered a bag of marijuana thrown from the car of a friend who officers said was leaving Driscoll's suburban home.

DENIES CHARGE

Driscoll, best remembered for his role in Treasure Island and Lester O. Ferguson, 20, a service station attendant, were booked on suspicion of violating the state narcotics law, a felony. Both denied any knowledge of the narcotic.

AT SUMMER SCHOOL SHOW

Attractive identical twins, Jeanne and Joanne Nettleton, of Kansas, hailed as "bright, gay and accomplished" duo-pianists by the New York Herald-Tribune following their Town Hall debut, will perform for Summer School students at Oak Bay Junior High School, Thursday at 8:15. The Nettleton twins have worked as a team since early childhood.

Black-Eyed Joanne, Husband, Split Up

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Joanne Dru, nursing a black eye, says she and her husband, John Ireland, have agreed to a trial separation because "we want a little time to work out our problems."

"We have no intention at the moment of going to lawyers," the actress said.

Miss Dru, in hospital for four days, blamed the black eye on a minor traffic accident while driving home from a party.

Ireland also ended up in the hospital after the party. He said he took some sleeping pills that made him sick.

Work on the actress' current film was suspended until she recovers.

Grace Laughs Off Hair-Raising Query

PARIS (UP)—Princess Grace of Monaco today gracefully declined to say whether she is expecting an heir.

"I'm afraid we didn't start all these rumors," the former Grace Kelly of Hollywood and Philadelphia said, flashing a brilliant smile at her husband, Prince Rainier. The royal couple arrived in Paris this morning by train for their first visit abroad since their honeymoon voyage to Spain.

Newsman immediately asked her about persistent rumors that she and the prince are expecting a royal heir sometime next winter. The princess said neither she nor her husband were responsible for the reports, and declined to answer any other questions on the subject—no matter how worded.

To each question, she smiled broadly or laughed gaily.

Garden Produce Appreciated by Free Food Stall

A plea for donations to the surplus food store here for next Saturday was issued today. Stall officials said that with gardens now coming in "we are hoping everyone will give something, no matter how big or how small."

Particularly needed are such items as rhubarb, heads of lettuce, cabbage and other produce.

Contributions may be left at McMoran's, Cordova Bay, Graham's Grocery at Elk Lake, McNutt's on Wilkinson or at the Victoria Meat Market, Broad and Johnson.

If donations can't be taken to these places, arrangements will be made to pick them up. Contact is Mrs. E. E. Harper, 410 Vincent, telephone 3-9874.

Centennial Posts $1,100 For Artists

Top Poster
To Get $500

Thousands of full-color posters to be used to advertise British Columbia's 100th birthday all over the world will be the work of B.C. artists, centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace said today.

The posters will be chosen on a competitive basis and $1,100 has been allotted for prizes. The first prize will be $500 and there will be six other prizes of $100 each.

The contest is open to both professional and amateur artists and will close Oct. 15, 1956.

Five poster designs will be selected from submitted sketches and will receive preliminary awards of $100 each. They will be asked to re-submit a completed poster in technical specifications. Final judging will be made on these designs.

The winner will receive an additional $400 and second and third place designs an additional $100 each.

The committee suggests a simple, striking design and urges contestants to give full reign to color.

JUDGES

Chairman of the three-man panel of judges is Fred Ames, principal of the Vancouver School of Art. Other judges are John Korner, president of the B.C. Society of Artists, and Peter Downes, a member of the council of the Vancouver Art Gallery and an executive with one of Canada's leading advertising agencies.

The poster contest was suggested by the tourist sub-committee of the centennial organization, under T. L. Sturges, deputy minister of the department of trade and industry. The sub-committee will supervise the reproduction of the posters in full color and distribution all over the world.

DETAILS

Primary poster theme is the centennial message, designed chiefly to attract visitors to the province during 1-58. Sketches should be on good quality illustration board, 12"x18" vertical, and should carry the contestant's name and address on the official entry form sealed in an envelope attached to the back of the sketch.

If, in the opinion of the judges, no submission warrants recognition, the awards may be withheld; on the other hand, the committee reserves the right to reproduce any or all of the prize-winning posters upon payment of a fee.

Entry forms and further details may be secured from the B.C. Centennial Committee, Parliament Buildings.

Support Strike

LONDON (Reuters)—The executive council of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, second most powerful in Britain, decided unanimously Tuesday to back a strike ultimatum issued by 50,000 British motor workers in protest against recent dismissals. Nearly half the 50,000 men belong to the union.

CHARGED—Jockey Calvin Roy Eustace, who rode at Vancouver race tracks two years ago, will appear in court there Thursday charged with extortion. He is charged with demanding $20,000 from Jack Diamond of Vancouver.

Soviet Terms Stalin Film Bid 'Insult'

PARIS (Reuters)—The Soviet government has turned down as "insulting" a request by Hollywood producer Darryl Zanuck for co-operation in making a picture about "the crimes of Joseph Stalin."

Zanuck, who is in Spain shooting a movie, announced through his representative in Paris that he had received the following communication from the cultural attaché of the Soviet embassy in Washington: "The ministry of culture of the U.S.S.R. found your proposal about co-operation in making a film based on the secret crimes of Joseph Stalin insulting, and this proposal caused the ministry a great deal of indignation."

EYE WITNESS—Philip E. Siggers, Jr. (above), 29, son of a prominent Washington, D.C., attorney, is shown in the San Francisco Hall of Justice where he was booked "on suspicion of aiding and abetting a suicide" in the case of Mrs. Oleta Farnham. He admitted he sat by her side as she killed herself, then "kissed her goodbye" as she died.

Somass Power Plan Harmless Alberni Told

All Amenities To Be Preserved

PORT ALBERNI — The people of the Alberni Valley Tuesday night received assurance from the B.C. Power Commission that residential and recreational amenities would be fully protected if the utility receives authority to proceed with its proposed 87,500-horsepower hydro development on the Somass river system.

Meeting with civic leaders and representatives of Sproat lake residents, Garth Griffiths, assistant to the commission's general manager, outlined in detail the method by which it was planned to operate two power plants at Sproat lake.

There are a number of year-round and summer residences around the lake, located only a few miles from the twin cities of Alberni and Port Alberni.

Mr. Griffiths emphasized that it was the commission's wish to co-operate fully with the people of the Alberni valley, "because we appreciate and value your point of view."

SPROAT STAYS LEVEL
Using engineering graphs, he indicated how Sproat lake would be used virtually as a watercourse, would not be raised, and would not be fluctuated materially from the natural seasonal variations of level.

Main point of Mr. Griffiths' explanation was that the proposal to build a powerhouse on Shum creek, near the north shore of Sproat lake and another at Sproat falls at the outlet of the lake, would not significantly affect the summer levels and the beaches. Also, commission and federal fisheries authorities are co-operating to ensure proper protection of migratory and resident fish.

Special attention was being given to ensure that there would be no flooding of beaches. The only noticeable variation from natural lake levels would occur in December, January, February and March when normal drop in the level would be prevented. Though the project is not for flood control, the more positive operation of the lake through a power dam at the outlet might be able to contribute to lessening extreme winter highs which caused some flooding this spring, Mr. Griffiths said.

The commission has applied for necessary water licences for the development, but must also obtain authority from the provincial fisheries department before it can commence construction.

"I've been informed by the holders of the estate," said the councillor, that they are willing to give Saanich first refusal to purchase the complete estate as long as it would be developed as a park."

Coun. Dispecker said Saanich could buy the land with money from its reverted land fund. The Capital Improvement District Commission could also be asked to assist in purchasing the land, he said.

New Esquimalt Sewer Complete by October

Construction of a sewer to serve a subdivision on Parklands Drive, off Admirals Road, should be completed by October. "We ran into a lot of rock, but the work is going ahead according to schedule," said Esquimalt municipal engineer John Graeme.

Construction began early in June and will cost $40,000. There are 80 lots in the subdivision, 20 with houses on them.

Saanich Parks Committee Wants 1 Mill from Taxes

Saanich parks committee will urge Saanich council next Monday to submit a plebiscite in December for the appropriation of 1 mill for the development and maintenance of parks in the municipality.

The suggestion that a plebiscite be submitted to ratepayers was made by Coun. Eugene Dispecker at a committee meeting Tuesday called to discuss a new park's policy for the municipality.

The appropriation of 1 mill would raise the parks' budget from $5,500 to $46,000 a year. Coun. Dispecker told the committee there was little use in talking about improvements to Saanich parks until council raised the money to carry out the necessary work.

Coun. T. J. O'Neill, committee chairman, agreed. "It's about time we realized that $5,500 couldn't possibly pay for our existing facilities, let alone the expanded parks plans we require," he said.

Coun. Dispecker also recommended that the trustees of the 140-acre McRae estate, which includes the Cedar Hill golf course, be asked to give the municipality first refusal "if and when" the estate was put up for sale.

"I've been informed by the holders of the estate," said the councillor, that they are willing to give Saanich first refusal to purchase the complete estate as long as it would be developed as a park."

Coun. Dispecker said Saanich could buy the land with money from its reverted land fund. The Capital Improvement District Commission could also be asked to assist in purchasing the land, he said.

Man Who Tried To Kill Wife Given Freedom

LEEDS, Eng. (AP)—Brick-layer Harold Mercer, 48, was placed on three years' probation Tuesday after pleading guilty of attempting to kill his cancer-stricken wife and himself with overdoses of sleeping pills.

"While the circumstances would move anyone to pangs, it must always be an offence against the state for a man to take the course you did," the judge told Mercer.

The couple was found unconscious in their home by their two married daughters June 17. There was a note saying, "I am going with your mother, so long — Dad."

Mercer was permitted to visit his wife in a hospital last week. She did not know her husband had been in jail awaiting trial. She believed he had been in a hospital after collapsing from the strain of nursing her the last two years in which time she has had several operations.

1,000 PHONES, 335 TELETYPES

40 TV Outlets Set For Big Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Cow Palace was wired for politics today and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. termed it "the most monumental job" it has ever done for a news event.

The event is the Republican national convention starting Aug. 20. The job of setting up communications for it began a year ago and ended Tuesday.

The number of television channels out of the Cow Palace was increased from two to 40. About 1,000 telephones were installed.

There are accommodations for 200 radio circuits, 335 teletype machines and 20 wire-photo circuits.

How to Reduce Swollen, Painful Piles without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories

Here is a nice, clean, easy way to shrink or reduce swollen, painful piles without the inconvenience of ointments, pile pipes or suppositories.

The secret is in taking just one small Hem-Roid Tablet, with water, two or three times a day. By effective INTERNAL action this mild yet powerful medicine eases constipation, helps break up and smoothly pass old hardened intestinal wastes, relieves itching, soreness and pain, helps shrink piles and permits them to heal. Hem-Roid is so easy to use, so pleasant and satisfying in giving immediate results hundreds have written their thanks for making this new medicine available to them.

Why suffer needlessly when Hem-Roid offers you so much? Get a package today. See for yourself how nice, clean and easy it is to use, how pleasantly and effectively it works. You'll find it's a real relief for you. Costs only a few pennies a day if you like it. NO COST otherwise as your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not 100% pleased. Ask at any drug store for Hem-Roid Internal Pile Treatment.

Steel strike delays work on pipeline.

TORONTO (CP)—The award of two contracts to contractors for the Alberta border-to-Winnipeg leg of the projected Trans-Canada Natural Gas pipeline has been delayed by a steel strike in the United States, it was said Tuesday.

A Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., spokesman said contracts already have been awarded to Majestic Contractors, Ltd., of Edmonton and Canadian Bechtel, Ltd., of Toronto for the first 200 miles of 34-inch pipe east of Alberta.

Delayed were contracts to Mannix, Ltd., of Calgary and Dutton Williams Brothers, Ltd. They were to have been awarded next month.

The spokesman said enough piping is on hand for 125 miles, enough until September for the two companies already contracted.

Port Arthur Ends Boycott Of Firm Over Fatal Blast

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A $15,000 peace offering from the Canadian Oil Co. to the city of Port Arthur has settled a city boycott on the company that dates back to a dynamite blast that claimed two lives in 1951.

Accepting the $15,000, the city announced the end of the boycott of all Canadian Oil Company products. Since 1951, all of the oil firm's tenders for city contracts have been unopposed.

At the time of the double fatality in 1951, the city became party to a three-way deal. The oil company, which had to do some blasting, engaged the services of a contracting firm for the work. The contractor, in turn, borrowed the services of city workmen for the blasting.

An explosion occurred, killing two men, blinding another and injuring a fourth.

The city workers were not covered by insurance. The contractor was penniless. The oil firm could not be held liable. To date, the city has paid out $21,294 in compensation as a result of the accident.

The city resented the oil firm's failure to contribute and instituted the boycott.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Aggressive demand for oats from American houses and domestic shippers highlighted trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Prices were higher reflecting United States government reports that the oats crop in the U.S. will be smaller than was anticipated.

Barley prices were narrow as trade was inactive. Some export orders and sales to the United Kingdom were reported.

There was an easier tone to flux prices which were somewhat irregular.

FINAL BULLETINS

Socreds Again Back Ottawa Liberals

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Commons, stirred up to fever pitch in a short six-minute debate, voted today to sustain the government against a direct opposition non-confidence challenge.

The Conservative and CCF opposition groups failed by a 121-69 vote to block the government from putting its spending program for the veterans' affairs and northern affairs department before the House. The Liberals were supported by the Social Credit group.

Victorian Just Misses Bisley Medal

BISLEY, England (CP)—A Canadian airman today missed winning the Queen Mary medal at the National Rifle Association meeting by the margin of one unfired round.

Cpl. Stan Goddard of Victoria, a member of the 12-man team from the RCAF air division in Europe, failed to get his last shot away in the rapid-fire event in which 10 rounds must be fired within 40 seconds.

Yost Leads in PNGA Match

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dick Yost of Seattle, defending Pacific Northwest Golf Association, appeared in an unsatisfactory position today when he was 5 up on Bert Ticehurst of Vancouver in their first-round match at the Marine Drive course here.

Yost, a husky 26-year-old, took the lead on the 4th and 6th to be 2 up at the turn.

Vancouver Murder Hearings Open

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The preliminary murder hearing of three young men opened in Vancouver police court today.

Charged with beating William Robert Martin to death May 26 are: Conrad Gunn, 25, a longshoreman; William Crompton, 26, a sawmill worker, and Louis Pronin, 22.

Martin died "of contusions of the brain and multiple fractures to the right side of the skull." He died in St. Paul's Hospital two days after a brawl in Vancouver's West End district.

Mainland Woman Dies After Fire

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—A woman died in hospital here today as a result of burns suffered in a fire Tuesday night at Paul Lake, 12 miles northeast of here.

RCMP said her bedding caught fire while she was smoking a cigarette. Her name is being withheld pending notification of her husband, believed somewhere on the B.C. coast.

Two Committed on Grave Drug Charge

VANCOUVER (CP)—Magistrate Orr today committed two men for trial in higher court on a charge of conspiring to traffic in narcotics. The men are John Petries, 46, and Henry Frank, 44.

Fourteen other persons were named as co-conspirators in the charge read to the two men. However, Magistrate Orr struck four names from the charge for lack of evidence before committing the pair for trial.

Leonard's Criticism Backed By U.K. Paper

(See Sports Page)

LONDON (CP)—A British newspaper sides with Canadian golfer Stan Leonard in his complaints about inadequate facilities at the Canada Cup and British Open championships in Britain.

The Evening Standard, citing a dispatch from Canada which quotes Leonard as saying British golf authorities have some "antiquated" ideas, acknowledges that the Hoylake area near Liverpool, where the British Open was played, is "totally outdated" for a major tournament.

"Competitors could not get a hot meal on the course," says the newspaper. "There were two refreshment tents available, organized by private caterers, one offering a cold lunch with little choice, the other run on the cafeteria system."

Aerial Survey Crew On Secret Project

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Four Vancouver men, on an aerial survey of a "top-secret federal project" were killed near here today when their amphibious aircraft crashed on Mount Lolo.

Company officials identified their men aboard the plane as: Carl Baxter, pilot, and Don McViegh, construction superintendent. The others were identified only as "members of the department of defence production."

Scene of the crash is 15 miles northeast of here but officials of Bennett and White Construction Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, said any information regarding the area is "classified—we can't tell you everything."

Officials of the heavy construction company were dispatched from here to the wreck site "to determine what happened and how it happened."

The company owned the twin-engine Grumman Widgeon plane.

It took off from this South Thompson Valley centre at 10 a.m. but filed no flight plan. It was expected to touch down on Paul Lake, northeast of here.

RCMP left by car for the scene of the crash on the 5,000-foot mountain.

Three hours after the crash, forest rangers and RCMP said the plane was still burning and rescue parties were unable to get near the wreckage.

SIGHTED BY RANGER

It was believed first word of the crash came from a forest ranger high on Mount Lolo. He is reported to have sighted smoke and investigated, finding the wreckage burning furiously.

Warren Miner, a Kamloops ambulance attendant, said the wreck was "about half way up the mountain. We drove to within a quarter of a mile of it."

He said it appeared the aircraft had hit a downdraft in the still, 90-degree air.

The Widgeon ploughed through a grove of trees and slammed into the side of the mountain. The wreckage, burning fiercely, fell onto a bluff and was still burning three hours later.

Miner said bodies of two of the men were found beneath the wreckage but that bodies of the others had not been recovered.

"The wreckage was scattered for quite a distance," he said.

Atlantic Union Not Feasible Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today that Atlantic union is not a feasible proposition at this time.

He added that any move toward Atlantic union—a federal state comprising the Atlantic nations—would be slow and gradual if, indeed, it ever took place at all.

He made the comment during a press conference while discussing the work of the three-man NATO committee seeking ways of increasing non-military co-operation among the members of the North Atlantic Alliance. Mr. Pearson, Foreign Minister Lange of Norway and Foreign Minister Martino of Italy comprise the committee.

Mr. Pearson said the committee's terms of reference don't permit any recommendation on Atlantic union. But in the realm of practical politics, such a proposition was not feasible now.

Mr. Pearson met recently with Mr. Lange and Mr. Martino in Paris after the prime ministers' conference.

"The trio, known as the 'three wise men,' decided to distribute a questionnaire containing between 20 and 40 questions to NATO governments seeking their views on how best to strengthen non-military collaboration."

It was hoped that the replies would be all in by Aug. 20. The three would meet again in early September to discuss these replies. At the same time, a number of experts were doing special studies on non-military co-operation.

Russ in Davis Cup?

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Russia today took the plunge into international tennis, and possible participation in Davis Cup matches, when she was admitted to membership in the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

The membership opens the way to Russian representation in Britain's Wimbledon championships and the Davis Cup. Russia, which has an estimated 40,000 players, sent a party of observers to the Wimbledon championships which ended last weekend.

New Trade Pact

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada signed its first trade agreement with Honduras today, Trade Minister C. D. Howe told parliament today.

Commons Urged To Banish Lash

OTTAWA (CP)—Abolition in Canada of corporal punishment as part of a prison sentence but its retention as a "last resort" measure to maintain discipline in prisons was recommended today to Parliament.

Today's report said the committee "concluded that the existence of corporal punishment affords no unique deterrence to crime. Accordingly, the committee recommends that corporal punishment be abolished for any of the offences for which it is presently prescribed in the Criminal Code."

The committee recommended that corporal punishment should be used in prisons in cases of mutiny, incitement to mutiny and for serious assaults on penitentiary officers and servants. It also should be used to punish prisoners guilty of acts of violence against fellow prisoners or causing or attempting serious damage to penitentiary property.

"The committee does not favor indiscriminate use of corporal punishment. Too frequent use of this drastic punishment is likely to reduce its significance and render it less effective than if it is reserved for only the most serious offences."

"It should be regarded, as it is now in most Canadian penal institutions, as a punishment to be applied only as a last resort when all other penalties are judged to be ineffective."

HEATED ARGUMENTS

The Polish party boss had been too much exposed by testimony given by Josef Svatlov, former high official of the Polish secret police who fled to the West and told the inside story of Communist dictatorships.

This prompted Kreglin leaders to decide Bierut's elimination. His suicide was preceded by a number of heated arguments, with Russian party leaders, headed by Khrushchev.

It was Khrushchev, the reports said, who finally pushed a gun across the table to Bierut who had no choice but to shoot himself.

Bierut put the pistol into his mouth and pulled the trigger.

'Drunk' Khrushchev Headed for Skids?

From UP and AP

LONDON (UP)—British newspapers speculated today that Nikita Khrushchev's love of vodka may cost him his leadership in the Soviet Union.

All of London's newspapers published front-page reports that a tipsy Khrushchev publicly insulted British Air Force Chief of Staff Nathan Twining and other westerners at a Moscow reception last week.

Several of them remarked that it might cost Khrushchev his job as leader of the Soviet Communist party.

Daily Mail reporter Walter Farr said Khrushchev planned to take "a long holiday."

He quoted "an authority in a position to know the full facts" as saying Khrushchev's position in the Kremlin has been weakened because he must be regarded as an irresponsible drunk.

Meanwhile, reliable reports reaching the West through diplomatic channels said Tuesday that Soviet party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev forced the late Boleslav Bierut, former first secretary of Poland's Communist party, to commit suicide while he visited Moscow early this year.

Top Communist officials in Warsaw had disclosed this to Western diplomats in private conversations, the report added.

When Bierut's death was announced last March 12, the official Polish news agency Pap had said he died in Moscow of a heart attack after having suffered from pneumonia and grippes.

Bierut had gone to Moscow to attend the 20th congress of the Soviet Union's Communist party.

Cabinet To Ask French House To Up Income Tax

PARIS (Reuters)—The cabinet decided today to ask Parliament to increase the income tax 10 per cent this year to help pay for the fighting in Algeria, a government spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the increase was an "exceptional" measure for 1956 only.

He said reservists called up to fight in Algeria and their "close relatives" would be exempted from the tax increase.

The decision to raise income taxes was taken today at a cabinet meeting presided over by President Rene Coty.

500 Deserted Korea-Bound Special Force

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's Korean infantry brigade lost one-fifth of its strength through discharges and desertions before it sailed for Korea, says an official army account of the operation.

The 108-page booklet, entitled Canada's Army in Korea—a Short Official Account, is being published by the Queen's printer and will go on sale Saturday.

The history says that on the eve of its departure in 1951 for Korea, the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade, or special force, as it was known then, had taken on more than 10,000 men. But its effective strength was approximately 8,000. About 500 men were absent without leave or had deserted and another 1,500 had been discharged.

Anti-Hanging Bill Delay Stirs Storm

(FROM REUTERS, UP)

LONDON—A political storm raged today over the House of Lords' rejection of a bill approved by the House of Commons, to abolish the death sentence.

Press and public are fiercely divided over the action Tuesday night by a 238 to 95 vote of the House of Lords.

The Labor party's Daily Herald says: "Bravely, and with a touching dignity, the House of Lords marches to the scaffold."

"By rejecting the bill to abolish capital punishment, and once again refusing to bow to the will of the elected Commons, the House of Lords puts its own coronet in the noose. Abolition of the peers' hereditary power of obstruction becomes a live political issue."

But many influential newspapers applauded the Lords' action.

The Daily Express says the peers gave effect to "the unquestioned will of the people" and dealt a stern rebuke to "the middleheads... and the underworld."

The vote climaxed a two-day debate which attracted to London many peers who normally take little interest in the activities of the House of Lords. Nevertheless, some 540 Lords did not cast a vote on the issue.

Box Car Charges Denied By CPR

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—D. S. Thomson, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway in a letter to Rene Jutra, chairman of the Commons agriculture committee, Wednesday, denounced as "completely unfounded and erroneous" critical statements made by the transport controller concerning the railway line's handling of the western grain crop.

Mr. Thomson said the CPR would welcome the opportunity to have its senior officers responsible for the transportation of grain appear before the committee to present the facts.

The committee will meet Tuesday, July 17 to hear the CPR's representatives reply to Roy Miller, transport controller. Mr. Miller had criticised the CPR's personnel responsible for handling box cars as "untrained personnel" and said the CPR "let me down badly" in supplying box cars during a six week period when he was calling for cars.

Mr. Miller had added that he had appealed to the CPR president, N. R. Crump. After the president intervened the transport controller had got action and the supply of CPR box cars had improved rapidly.

Mr. Thomson said in his letter to Mr. Jutra that the fact was that at all times during the crop year a substantial number of CPR box cars

KITIMAT SITUATION AIRED

Canadians Carrying Ball At Duke's Conference

By ROBERT RICE

LONDON (CP)—Kitimat, the town aluminum built in northern British Columbia, is a suburb minus the metropolis.

So, says a Canadian sociologist, a suburbanite adjusts himself better to life there than the would-be frontiersman.

Elmer Luchterhand, a research associate with the Aluminum Company of Canada, made the point in a paper at the Oxford conference on human problems in industrial communities, attended by 30 Canadians and 250 other Commonwealth delegates.

His study, bristling with candid comments, set out to answer two questions:

What has social planning done for Kitimat, a one-enterprise town of 7,000 persons where the company is said to be the bridegroom at every wedding and the corpse at every funeral? And who adjusts best to its peculiar life of semi-isolation?

In doing so, Luchterhand cuts a wide swath in dealing with Kitimat. Married couples, he reports, feel that a single girl tends to act as though her motives in coming to Kitimat are suspect.

"Only after a fairly long stay in the community, which serves to dramatize her virtue, does she begin to use her advantage in the arithmetic of courtship chances."

A study of 20 Kitimat citizens settled happily in the community showed the characteristics shared in common were those that would help them estimate what Kitimat has to "help or hinder" their life chances.

in Africa and Malaya. And the problems were all different.

"There's a need for this sort of thing," said R. H. Brown of Port Credit, Ont., a union official. "Here we can talk about industry and people—learn from the past and look at the future."

Their subject—officially "the human problems of industrial communities within the Commonwealth and Empire"—is not one that will produce easy, obvious results. The participants generally admit that.

Tuesday, with the duke as chairman, they sat in Rhodes House, one of Oxford's many historic colleges, and heard top speakers give what the duke hoped would be "controversial and heretical" speeches.

Lord Citrine, a former union leader and now chairman of the Central Electricity Authority, told them managers wield tremendous influences over the lives—public and private—of their employees.

"The higher the post, the greater the responsibility for the worker's happiness," he said. He forecast a new kind of manager evolving from the community—an "industrial statesman." These men would combine for the good of all the workers' contentment and the company's successes.

He threw out his ideas for what they were worth. The members—dubbed "the duke's students" in this university city—started talking about them at lunch and some study groups sat in the sun in nearby meadows and talked all afternoon.

"The Canadian contribution is first class," said one of the group chairmen, R. Telford, a British works manager.

The Canadians, with their easy friendliness, have already helped get the conference on a first-name basis. But one Canadian had a bit of difficulty with a Royal Nigerian chief.

The Nigerian, a tall man with a flowing green and white robe and a turban-like headgear, wasn't too eager to be too chummy too soon.

"Just call me chief," he told the Canadians.

CANADIANS, more than any other people, benefit from ELECTRIC POWER

Abundant low-cost power provided by Canada's alert and progressive electric utilities is a vital contribution to our country's growth and to better living

ELECTRICITY is almost as much a part of our life today as the air we breathe. Abundant low-cost power is one of the important reasons for so many busy factories... greater production of goods than ever before... and better paying jobs. In rural areas, too, wherever the power lines run, you'll find prosperous farms and greater living comfort. And in offices and homes, everywhere, electric power makes life easier and more enjoyable.

Since 1945, the demand for electricity has almost doubled and it is expected to double again within the next ten years. Keeping pace with this ever-increasing demand reflects great credit on Canada's power companies. Their engineers have changed the age-old courses of rivers, have tunneled through mountains, created immense reservoirs and built massive dams to harness the energy of rushing water.

Other sources of energy being used increasingly

Over 90% of Canada's output of electricity is developed by water power. In some areas however, all the usable water power resources have been put to work, or soon will be. To help meet future needs, engineers are turning their attention more and more to other sources of energy to operate steam or gas-driven turbine-generators.

The gas turbine is one of the newer methods of converting heat to electrical energy. Low-grade oil or natural gas is mixed with compressed air in a combustion chamber and the force of the resulting exhaust gases turns the turbine which drives the generator. Canadian General Electric is supplying gas turbines for a new station in British Columbia, which will be one of the largest of its kind in the world.

Canada's first atomic electric power plant being built

Canada's first atomic electric power plant being built near Chalk River, Ontario, by Canadian General Electric together with Atomic Energy of Canada and Ontario Hydro, signifies new horizons in the generation of electric power. The engineering knowledge and experience gained will be freely available to the nation's power companies.

For over 60 years Canadian General Electric has built much of the vast amount of equipment needed to generate, transmit and distribute electricity... and the wide variety of products that put electricity to use in homes and industry. There are over three times as many C.G.E. employees today as there were in 1939. They are designing, manufacturing and supplying the largest volume of electrical products in this Company's history. These products, including many which didn't even exist a few years ago, help assure that Canadians will continue to live better... electrically.

Progress Is Our Most Important Product

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY LIMITED

These generating stations are typical of some 350 hydro-electric plants that produce over nine-tenths of the country's electric power.

Oscar Winner Arrested On Dope Charge

Bobby Driscoll Held by Police

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bobby Driscoll, 19, awarded a special Oscar as the best child actor of 1949, was arrested Tuesday night on suspicion of violating the state narcotics law.

The actor was taken into custody after police said they recovered a bag of marijuana thrown from the car of a friend who officers said was leaving Driscoll's suburban home.

DENIES CHARGE

Driscoll, best remembered for his role in Treasure Island and Lester O. Ferguson, 20, a service station attendant, were booked on suspicion of violating the state narcotics law, a felony. Both denied any knowledge of the narcotic.

Attractive identical twins, Jeanne and Joanne Nettleton, of Kansas, hailed as "bright, gay and accomplished" duo-pianists by the New York Herald-Tribune following their Town Hall debut, will perform for Summer School students at Oak Bay Junior High School, Thursday at 8.15. The Nettleton twins have worked as a team since early childhood.

Black-Eyed Joanne, Husband, Split Up

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Joanne Dru, nursing a black eye, says she and her husband, John Ireland, have agreed to a trial separation because "we want a little time to work out our problems."

"We have no intention at the moment of going to lawyers," the actress said.

Miss Dru, in hospital for four days, blamed the black eye on a minor traffic accident while driving home from a party.

Ireland also ended up in the hospital after the party. He said he took some sleeping pills that made him sick.

Work on the actress' current film was suspended until she recovers.

Grace Laughs Off Hair-Raising Query

PARIS (UP)—Princess Grace of Monaco today gracefully declined to say whether she is expecting an heir.

"I'm afraid we didn't start all these rumors," the former Grace Kelly of Hollywood and Philadelphia said, flashing a brilliant smile at her husband, Prince Rainier.

The royal couple arrived in Paris this morning by train for their first visit abroad since their honeymoon voyage to Spain.

Newsman immediately asked her about persistent rumors that she and the prince are expecting a royal heir sometime next winter.

The princess said neither she nor her husband were responsible for the reports, and declined to answer any other questions on the subject—no matter how worded.

To each question, she smiled broadly or laughed gaily.

Garden Produce Appreciated by Free Food Stall

A plea for donations to the surplus food store here for next Saturday was issued today.

Stall officials said that with gardens now coming in "we are hoping everyone will give something, no matter how big or how small."

Particularly needed are such items as rhubarb, heads of lettuce, cabbage and other produce.

Contributions may be left at McMorran's, Cordova Bay, Graham's Grocery at Elk Lake, McNutt's on Wilkinson or at the Victoria Meat Market, Broad and Johnson.

If donations can't be taken to these places, arrangements will be made to pick them up. Contact is Mrs. E. E. Harper, 410 Vincent, telephone 3-9874.

Centennial Posts $1,100 For Artists

Top Poster To Get $500

Thousands of full-color posters to be used to advertise British Columbia's 100th birthday all over the world will be the work of B.C. artists, centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace said today.

The posters will be chosen on a competitive basis and $1,100 has been allotted for prizes. The first prize will be $500 and there will be six other prizes of $100 each.

The contest is open to both professional and amateur artists and will close Oct. 15, 1956.

Five poster designs will be selected from submitted sketches and will receive preliminary awards of $100 each. They will be asked to re-submit a completed poster to technical specifications. Final judging will be made on these designs.

The winner will receive an additional $400 and second and third place designs an additional $100 each.

The committee suggests a simple, striking design and urges contestants to give full reign to color.

JURGES

Chairman of the three-man panel of judges is Fred Ames, principal of the Vancouver School of Art. Other judges are John Kerner, president of the B.C. Society of Artists, and Peter Downes, a member of the council of the Vancouver Art Gallery and an executive with one of Canada's leading advertising agencies.

The poster contest was suggested by the tourist sub-committee of the centennial organization, under T. L. Sturges, deputy minister of the department of trade and industry. The sub-committee will supervise the reproduction of the posters in full color and distribution all over the world.

DETAILS

Primary poster theme is the centennial message, designed chiefly to attract visitors to the province during 1958. Sketches should be on good quality illustration board, 12"x18" vertical, and should carry the centennial year and address on the official entry form sealed in an envelope attached to the back of the sketch.

If, in the opinion of the judges, no submission warrants recognition, the awards may be withheld; on the other hand, the committee reserves the right to reproduce any or all of the prize-winning posters upon payment of a fee.

Entry forms and further details may be secured from the B.C. Centennial Committee, Parliament Buildings.

Support Strike
